Plan Spending Million at Scioto Power Plant

New Equipment To Greatly Enlarge Production Capacity.

WILL REQUIRE YEAR

Issuance of Securities for Financing Program Authorized.

The Marion-Reserve Power Company was authorized by the state utilities commission to issue preferred stock to finance a $1,000,000 improvement program at the Scioto power plant near Newmans in 1940, The Associated Press reported from Columbus.

The improvements will consist of a new large generator and a new boiler and turbine for production of electrical energy. Both the generator and boiler will be of the latest type and will incorporate many improvements developed in recent years, George M. Ditter of 321 Cherry street, the company's production manager, said.

The generator to be installed will have a rating of 12,500 kilowatts, matching in size and capacity the largest of the three generators now operated at the station. Two of the units now in use are rated at 6,000 kilowatts.

The boiler, although it will occupy no more floor space than the present units, will have twice the power output of any of the present battery of six boilers. It has a pressure rating of 850 pounds and a steam temperature rating of 825 degrees. Present units at the plant have pressure ratings of 275 pounds and temperature ratings of 600 degrees.

Year Required

The improvements will require a year for completion, Mr. Ditter estimated.

The new equipment was decided on because of its greater efficiency and because of the growing demand for electrical energy throughout the wide area served by the power plant, company officials said.

The work planned this year will not require enlargement of the power plant building. When the building was extended in 1929 to make way for two new boilers installed at that time, provision was made to house the type of units to be installed this year.

Securities Authorized

The utilities commission today authorized issuance of 7,500 shares of preferred stock with a stated value of $100 to help finance the improvement program. The stock is to be issued at not less than $95.

The commission also approved issuance of $9,750,000 in other securities.

The company was authorized to issue before March 1: $7,750,000 in 3½ per cent bonds and $1,250,000 in 3¾ per cent notes approved last July 24, but not sold "because of market conditions."

The company will set up a $910,100 "donated surplus" by accepting 9,101 shares of preferred stock from the Utilities Service Co., holder of all Marion-Reserve common stock.

Further, the company, upon showing unCapitalized capital expenditures of $91,000 as of Nov. 26, 1939, was authorized to issue to utilities service 3,000 shares of no par common at a stated value of $20, in lieu of dividends which the holder might have received had the treasury been reimbursed for such expenditures.

Chester C. Roberts, president, Malcolm Strellitz, vice president and attorney, and Harold J. Quigley, secretary and treasurer, were among the company officials in Columbus yesterday to present the financing proposal to the utilities commission. They are now in New York City in the further interest of the financing plan. It is expected the securities will be ready for placing on the market within the next few weeks.

Area Served

The Scioto power plant produces electricity for the 15,000 consumers the company serves directly and supplies distributing plants at Delaware and Prospect. It also serves REA consumers in Marion and several nearby counties.

Communities served directly by the company are Marion, Claridon, Caledonia, Kirkpatrick, Monroe, Wyandot, Brush Ridge, Green Camp, Owens, Richwood, Essex, Summersville, York Center, Byrnsville, Claiborne, Magnetic Springs, Pharisburg, Warrensburg, White Sulphur, Bellepoint, Baltimore, O'Shaughnessey dam, Jerome, Radnor, Meredith, Stratford, Hyatts, Lewis Center, Powell, Flint, Africa, Waldo, Marengo, Fulton, South Woodbury, Norton, Mt. Gilead, Edison, Cardington and Ashley. Intermediate rural territory also is served.

OHIO'S PENSION CLAIM VETOED

House Later Upholds President's Rejection in Close Vote.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Ohio has lost its battle for federal reimbursement of $1,338,000 which it claimed to have spent for old age assistance while under suspension by the social security board.

Climaxing a short debate that brought Republican charges of "politics" and "bureaucracy," the house voted late yesterday to uphold President Roosevelt's veto of a bill to repay the state.

The vote as 171 to override the veto and 153 to support it, but a two-thirds majority is necessary to reject the President's decision. Aside from 38 Democrats who sided against Mr. Roosevelt the ballot was on party lines.

Rep. Jenkins, Republican of Ohio, told the house that the bill had the approval of Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator.

The federal aid was withheld in October, 1938, on the ground that the Ohio old age program was being administered irregularly. Complaints that the state pension system had been used for political purposes were denied by Martin L. Davey, Democrat, who was then governor.

Roosevelt's Message

Mr. Roosevelt said in his veto message:

"It seems to me that the disapproval of this bill will serve notice on every state in the union that all kinds of federal aid must be conditioned on full compliance with the federal law and wholly without discrimination or inefficiency."

In Ohio, Gov. Bricker declared that the veto "once again illustrates the willingness of the New Deal to sabotage humanitarian principles whenever it can serve its own selfish political purposes by so doing."

Failure of the government to repay the money, he said, would hit at 125,000 "innocent persons who are on Ohio's pension rolls."

If President Roosevelt had approved the appropriation, it would have gone to Ohio's general revenue fund to help liquidate a school foundation fund deficit. Former Governor Davey borrowed money from the general

SHIP SINKINGS HOLD INTEREST IN WAR NEWS

Berlin Announces Deutschland Returns to Port; French Steamer in Distress.

By The Associated Press

Warships and the world's shipping lanes, perilled by wartime hazards, today furnished the major interest of the two European conflicts, which developed scant land action.

Germany shed some light on one of her principal sea weapons, the the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Deutschland, which she said "returned home recently" from warring on merchantships in the Atlantic.

The battleship, whose war activities have been surrounded in considerable mystery, will no longer be known as the Deutschland, however, for Adolf Hitler ordered that she be renamed Luetzow. Deutschland will be reserved as the name of "a bigger ship" he said.

It was not disclosed in Berlin whether such a ship was already under construction.

The original Leutzow, a heavy cruiser, also will be renamed.

The Leutzow, fifth of the new German series of 10,000-ton cruisers, was launched at Bremen July 1.

The Deutschland was one of three 10,000-ton pocket battleships which Germany had at the start of the war.

Four more neutral vessels, two Norwegian, one Swedish, and one Finnish, were added to the toll of shipping lost under war conditions.

Japanese Ire Roused

The Japanese admiralty said it was "making preparations to prevent" repetition of incidents such as occurred Jan. 20 when a British warship removed 21 German seamen from the Japanese liner Asama Maru 35 miles from Yokohama.

Nature of the measures contemplated remained a secret but Japanese sentiment was stirred by another incident in which the steamer Tatuta Maru was halted by a warship in the eastern Pacific Jan. 18.

The contention of Winston Churchill, Britain's first lord of the admiralty, that neutral nations were obligated under the League of Nations covenant to join in "united action" with the allies was rejected by the Netherlands parliament.

French Vessel Calls for Help

GENOA, Jan. 25—The French auxiliary naval vessel Forfait, 622 tons, was reported to have radioed for help today.

The Italian freighter Collina wirelessed she was steaming to the aid of the French boat, which apparently was somewhere in the western Mediterranean.

The nature of the Forfait's plight was not at once made known.

The Collina, 6,086 tons, only yesterday was reported standing by the hulk of the burned Italian liner Orazio, 38 miles off Toulon awaiting the possibility of towing her shoreward.

MAN ACQUITTED IN DUCK CASE TRIAL

Verdict Returned After 2-Hour Jury Deliberation.

Verdict of not guilty was returned yesterday afternoon by the common pleas court jury which heard the trial of Addison Hartle, 24, of Bennett street, charged with assault with intent to kill.

The jury deliberated approximately two hours before returning the verdict at 3:30. Closing arguments and the selection of a foreman were completed before the trial was recessed at noon.

The jurors began their study of the case at 1:30 and after seeking further information from Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young, announced the verdict. The jury asked for a transcript of the judge's charge midway in their deliberations.

Hartle was accused of assaulting Paul Bernard, 43, of St. Clair street last June 4. An altercation, which allegedly followed the theft of two ducks and firing of their pen, was reported to have taken place near Bernard's residence.

Hartle was represented by Mouser & Mouser and John W. Watters and Walter D. Moore, assistant county prosecuting attorney, was in charge of the prosecution.

GREEN ATTACKS LABOR BOARD

A. F. L. Criticizes Administration of Wagner Act at House Hearing.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—William Green accused the national labor board today of forcing members of A.F.L. west coast longshoremen's unions to be represented in collective bargaining by "an alien Communist," the C.I.O. leader Harry Bridges.

Criticizing the board with sharp phrases and calling for four amendments to the national labor relations act, Green, A.F.L. president, shouted to a house investigating committee that the board had "wiped out" his west coast longshoremen's unions as bargaining units.

The board held that the proper unit for west coast longshoremen extended from San Diego to the state of Washington which meant, Green said, that "that man Bridges and his crew were clothed with authority to represent A. F. L. unions."

"It was bad enough," Green said, "to compel the American Federation of Labor unions to be merged with rival groups, but it was increasingly worse when they were compelled to be represented by a man most all of us know to be a Communist."

Appearing before the special house committee investigating the Agency, Green asserted:

"The American Federation of Labor comes here as a friend and defender of the national labor relations act. Our protests are against its administration."

The A.F.L. leader recalled that he described the act as labor's "magna charta" when it was first approved by congress and said his organization maintained that view now.

"We seek to zealously guard and defend its fundamental provisions," he said.

When he reminded the committee that he previously had testified before both senate and house labor committees in favor of a series of amendments, chairman Smith (D-Va.) asked whether the A.F.L. supported these amendments now.

"We still stand by them," he replied. "We hope they will be favorably acted upon by congress."

MERCURY AT 3-BELOW HERE AS NEW COLD WAVE ARRIVES

Critical Relief Situation Seen If Levies Lose

This is the third in the series of articles concerning the two special tax levies for relief and WPA which will be voted on by Marion residents Jan. 30. The information for the articles has been furnished by city officials who have been given this opportunity to present their arguments on behalf of the proposals.

* * *

If the two tax levy proposals for relief and WPA are defeated at the polls next Tuesday, Marion's city officials predict a darkly uncertain future for the public pocketbook.

They feel it is highly doubtful that the state or federal government would step in to grant any additional help, and that the only recourse left would be for the city to use its operating funds to aid the needy.

Offhand, this may not sound so bad, but this is what it would mean if the levies fail and the situation becomes acute:

1. Reduction of the number of policemen and firemen. (With a possible rise in insurance rates.)

2. Curtailment of various services such as street cleaning, rubbish collection, street maintenance and repair, health service.

3. General reduction of public service facilities of all departments.

4. Reduction in the amount of food and fuel granted relief clients. (Already quite low.)

City officials do not say that all this actually will happen exactly as outlined if the levies fail, but as far as they can see now something of that nature would necessarily have to be done. In no event will any of the needy be permitted to go without aid.

The levies proposed are 1.3 mills, raising about $43,000 annually for two years for poor relief, and .9 of a mill, raising approximately $30,000 annually for two years for sponsoring WPA projects. If the $73,000 thus raised in one year were taken from the city's general fund it would mean a reduction of more than one-third in the general fund used normally for operating departments of the city.

If only the WPA levy should fail, then the WPA program probably would be curtailed and as many of the WPA clients as possible put on direct relief. Some WPA work could be continued with gas tax revenue and money from the relief levy.

If only the relief levy fails, then WPA could be continued as planned, but direct relief would have to be financed largely from the general fund.

What State Requires

The state stands ready to help only those communities which help themselves. Last year the state paid an average of about 38 cents of every dollar spent here on direct relief and the same percentage is likely to continue in 1940. However, if the city spends nothing, then the state will spend nothing, since the state grants are on a matching basis.

If both levies are approved at the polls, then the situation here should be well in hand.

Notes could be issued almost immediately against the future collection of the taxes so that funds would be on hand at once. Actual collection of the levies would begin this June and would be retroactive to Jan. 1, according to the county auditor's office.

Levies Defined

The relief levy would mean an extra tax of $1.30 on each $1,000 worth of property in the city and the WPA levy a tax of 90 cents per $1,000. Together they would mean a tax of $2.20 on each $1,000 worth of property.

The present city tax rate is $17.30 per $1,000. If the levies are approved it would be $19.50. Last year it was $19. Thus if both levies are approved it will mean a net increase over last year's rate of only 50 cents on each $1,000

Resolutions Test Lewis' Control Over Mine Union

Forty-Seven Proposals Offered Urging Third Term for Roosevelt Despite Leader's Stand.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25—Forty-seven resolutions supporting a third term for President Roosevelt were introduced today before the United Mine Workers of America convention, providing an anomalous aftermath to John L. Lewis' split with the New Deal.

No immediate action was taken by the 2,000 delegates on the resolutions from locals in Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Alabama, Wyoming, and Maryland.

Several resolutions also were offered opposing use of U.M.W. fund for political campaigns. Lewis, president of the U.M.W. and Congress for Industrial Organizations, put up $500,000 for the 1936 Democratic campaign fund.

Want Lewis for President

A hope that Lewis "someday would be president of the United States" was expressed in a resolution from a Sharon, W. Va., group.

The delegates, taking up several hundred of 1,800 resolutions submitted before the Jubilee session opened, adopted one opposing continuation of the Dies committee investigating unAmerican activities. It suggested that the money be turned over to the LaFollette civil liberties committee.

The Roosevelt third term resolutions contrasted sharply with Lewis' prediction yesterday that a campaign to reelect the President would result in "ignominious defeat."

While there may be some warm debate on these resolutions, there was little likelihood of any being adopted in view of Lewis' stringent control over the convention.

This control was demonstrated yesterday in the midst of a clamor by several U.M.W. districts for autonomy.

As 20 delegates shouted for recognition from the presiding officer, Lewis strode to the microphone and announced:

"There is really nothing to debate. Every district will be given autonomy when it has demonstrated that it wants it and can support itself."

Policy Reaffirmed

The delegates, representing more than 600,000 mine workers, then reaffirmed a policy empowering the international executive board to decide whether a district should be granted the privilege of self-government.

Lewis, elaborating later on his blast at the Democratic national administration, which he accused of breaking faith with labor and

Former Marion Doctor To Lose State Health Job

Dr. Kenneth D. Smith, former county coroner and city health commissioner, is slated to lose his position as chief of the occupational disease division of the state health department on Feb. 1 as a result of a sweeping reorganization plan announced yesterday by Health Director R. H. Markwith.

Dr. Smith joined the division in May of 1938 as the second ranking officer and later became chief. At first his salary was set at $3,200 a year but as chief it has been $4,000.

One Of Four Affected

Dr. Smith is among four executives to be dropped on Feb. 1, according to news reports from Columbus. Others are Irvin C. Plummer, chief of the division of vital statistics at a salary of $4,000; Dr. Pinley Van Orsdall, chief of the division of communicable diseases at $4,300; and Dr. Reeves W. De Crow, chief of the bureau of health organization at $3,600. All are residents of Columbus.

The jobs of the four men are abolished by the new plan, which Director Markwith declares is designed "for economy, efficiency and the avoidance of bureaucracy." He estimated the salary saving at $10,000 a year.

The new plan of organization, recommended by the Ohio public health council, also creates eight new divisions to replace the 20 now operating. They are adult hygiene, audits and statistics, child hygiene, dentistry, engineering, law, laboratories and nursing. The new divisions will be staffed with civil service employes now in the department, at salaries ranging from $3,600 to $5,000 a year. A civil service survey will precede the setting of titles and wages.

Studied Industrial Diseases

As chief of the division of occupational diseases, Dr. Smith headed the state's work on various ailments, including silicosis.

He is a Democrat and was appointed by Dr. Walter H. Hartung, health director under former Gov. Davey.

Dr. Smith served as Marion county coroner in 1931-32 and from 1933 until about 1936 held the position of city health commissioner. He also served as city physician for 22 months starting in March of 1933.

He has been making his home at Delaware at 121 Brighton road.

Capital Politicians Say Lewis About To Indorse Wheeler for President

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Political Washington, startled by John L. Lewis' anti-third term statement, was ready to lay odds today that the C.I.O. chieftain is thinking of indorsing Senator Wheeler of Montana for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Wheeler will address the United Mine Workers' convention at Columbus, O., tomorrow night on the same platform from which Lewis let loose his prediction that a Roosevelt third term candidacy would go down to "ignominious defeat."

Democrats generally, while resenting Lewis' assertion that the Roosevelt administration had been unfaithful to labor, thought the C.I.O. head was flirting with a Wheeler nomination or at least was "out to bargain with" [illegible] a man of his type and to influence the party platform.

A few thought Lewis might be threatening to run himself if he failed to get his man nominated, while one Democrat predicted the labor leader would "kiss and make up" with Roosevelt before the national convention.

Republicans hailed joyfully Lewis' charge that the Democratic party after seven years had no "solution" for major problems and his statement that Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York were "trending toward" the Republican column.

Representative Martin of Massachusetts, house minority leader, said that Lewis' [illegible] of the administration and serve as the head of a [illegible] for the

FOREST CRASH FATAL TO HARDIN CO. YOUTH

John Seymour Killed at Crossing; Companion Injured.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Jan. 25—John Seymour, 19, of near Kenton was killed and James Jefferson, 22, colored, of Kenton, was critically injured, when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Big Four freight train in Forest last night about 8:20.

Jefferson had accompanied Seymour to Forest to attend a birthday party for his year-old son, James Edward Jefferson. They were enroute back to Kenton when their car was struck at the Zimmerman street crossing by a southbound train.

Seymour remained in the wreckage, which was carried nearly 1,200 feet down the tracks. He still was breathing when he was extricated but died just before the arrival of the Piper Brothers ambulance. The car was demolished.

Jefferson was thrown free of the wreckage and was found lying unconscious 150 feet from the crossing. He suffered head and internal injuries and was re-

LARGE SECTION OF NATION HIT

Sandusky Bay Bridge Closed; Ice Jams Ohio River; Colder Tonight.

The entire nation east of the Rockies shivered in a new cold wave today.

In Marion last night temperatures went down to three below zero and a half-inch of snow fell. Two city maintenance trucks were involved in separate collisions blamed on skidding.

The Sandusky bay bridge was closed by drifting snow.

Cincinnati faces a possible flood threat with an Ohio river ice-jam backing up toward the city. The ice is the worst since 1917-18.

Twenty-one inches of snow blanketed parts of Virginia; Miami, Fla., was badly chilled and along the Atlantic seaboard roads were blocked by snow and ice in several states.

* * *

Drop to 3 Below Registered Here

A new cold wave settled down over Marion and other parts of Ohio last night and is expected to stick around for a while.

The official government forecast is for generally fair tonight and Friday, slightly colder tonight and continued cold Friday; Saturday snow with slowly rising temperatures.

The cold wave, accompanied by a half-inch of snow, sent Marion's temperature down to three degrees below zero last night. The mercury in Weather Observer E. H. Raffensperger's thermometer skidded to the sub-zero point from yesterday's high point of 23 above. A year ago the range was from 30 to 14 degrees above.

Sixth in Month

Last night's plunge below the nothing-mark was the sixth so far this month to zero or below, almost as bad as January of 1936 when the thermometer went below zero six times and set a several-year record for January. The mercury went down to zero once this month, and went below five times.

The snow of yesterday brought to approximately 12.5 inches the total so far this month, equalling the total fall of January 1939, which was a record for the month in recent years.

Despite the snow, state highways in Marion county were all open and in good condition today, Clyde G. Porterfield, superintendent of maintenance for the county, reported. Two plows were out last night and again today to keep the drifts off. The wind tends to drift the snow but the fast-moving traffic keeps falling snow off the roads.

Six County Plows Out

County-maintained roads, where traffic is not so heavy or fast, were not so clear today. All six of the county's snow plows were busy today and probably will be tonight, clearing away drifts. The snow is particularly dry and drifts easily, the county engineer's office reported. It clings more to the stone roads than to hard pavements also.

The city service department had 10 regular employes and about 15 work-relief men on the streets today. Most of the gutters in the business district have been cleared and the workers were moving into the residential sections. In addition intersections were treated with salt or cinders to ease driving conditions.

No Alarm Over Crops

The effect of the continued cold on the winter wheat crop in the county is not expected to be adverse, according to observers. No complaints of conditions have been received at the county conservation office, where an official said that most danger to the wheat comes later on when there are alternate thaws and freezes.

Elsewhere in the state, conditions varied. According to The Associated Press, the cold wave brought sub-zero temperatures to southern Ohio and near-zero temperatures in northern sections. At

Boston Wool

BOSTON, Jan. 25—Business was very slow on the Boston wool market today. Buyers were showing mostly a waiting attitude while some holders were trying to find outlets for their supplies of old domestic wools, which was causing an easy tone in the market for territory and fleece wools. Current needs of users were being filled largely by purchases of foreign wools, but trade in foreign wools was much slower than last week.

Production of paints and varnishes in Switzerland has become extensive enough to meet about three-fourths of domestic needs.

MARKET LACKS RISING POWER

Stocks Slip to Lower Ground After Recording Gains Wednesday.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 — Stimulating market news was lacking today and many rallying stocks of Wednesday backed into losing territory.

It was not an abrupt reversal, however, most minus signs being relatively small. Gains also were to be seen here and there near the fourth hour.

Lacking rising power were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Kennecot and American Telephone.

Up a shade at one time were Montgomery Ward, Lockheed, Socony, Sperry and American Smelting.

European securities markets did little either way. Bonds were mixed and commodities, on the whole, a shade better.

Not so pleasing were today's official statistics on last week's freight loadings showing a contra-seasonal drop. The fall was believed partly a reflection of the flattening of the economic curve in addition to handicaps caused by exceptionlaly severe weather conditions in most sections of the country. At that, shipments were well above the comparable period in 1938 and 1939.

Aviation stocks maintained a resistant front as reports were heard of heavy contemplated buying here by the British and French.

Those in Wall Street who derived satisfaction from the split of C.I.O. Leader Lewis with the New Deal, took secondary thought that the election is quite a distance away.

WHEAT HITS LOW MARK FOR 2 WEEKS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 — Wheat prices fell more than a cent a bushel today to the lowest levels in about two weeks.

Selling was not aggressive but forecast of rising temperatures over many important wheat areas and the peace appeal of the Dutch foreign minister kept buying in check. Quiet domestic and foreign demand for wheat, reports of improved moisture conditions in the southwest and uncertainly regarding the wheat loan situation also were unsettling factors.

Wheat closed 1⅛-1⅜ cents lower than yesterday, May 98⅝-⅞; July 96⅛-96; corn ⅜-⅝ down, May 57⅛-¼, July 57⅛; oats ⅛-¾ lower.

Frost on Plane Wings Creates Hazard for War Pilots in Arctic Areas

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—A phe- which has stumped ... aeronautical engineers ... is adding to the war- ...ards of air fighting in ... bitter winter weather.

... left unprotected in ... overnight frequently ... fly at all or, if pilots ... to get them aloft, ... often vicious and un-

... uble has been traced to ... deposits of frost, ice or ... the wings which are not ... discernible. For reasons ... have not been able to ... their own satisfaction, ... sits interrupt the smooth ... air over the wing in ... and rob it of its lift.

Accidents Were Mystery

Mystery accidents, in which ... have failed to leave the ... and crashed at the end of ... runways, have been traced ... the presence of light frost or ... on the wing.

The difficulties of winter flying, which Finnish and Russian airmen must add to the dangers of anti-aircraft fire and attacks by enemy planes, do not stop at that.

For three hours prior to takeoff engines must be nursed into temperature ranges where they will function. Almost the instant airplanes come to rest after the completion of a mission, oil must be drained from the engines to keep it from congealing. Fire pots enclosed in canvas tents must be put under the motors in exceptionally cold weather to raise the temperature of the metal to 75 degrees as a guarantee against power failure on takeoff.

No better description of the work entailed in keeping an airplane functioning in below-zero weather has been supplied than in accounts of the operations of Pacific Alaska Airways in the interior of Alaska.

Motor Heating Problem

There not only the motors but the wings are sheathed when the company transports are at rest to prevent accidents. A troublesome but less serious problem encountered aloft by company pilots is the frosting of the cockpit windshield inside during flight. They resort to the use of putty knives or razor blades to scrape off the frost.

The problem of dealing with balky airplanes having frost, ice or snow deposits on the wings became critical about three years ago when several planes on U. S. Navy aircraft carriers plunged into the ocean on attempted winter takeoffs. The navy whipped the hazard by handwiping each plane's wings before flights.

Hitler Doomed by Napoleonic Ego, Indiana Psychiatrist Declares

By International News Service

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The Napoleonic ego of Adolf Hitler, a manifestation of insanity, will bring about his downfall, according to the opinion of Dr. Max A. Bahr, superintendent of the Indiana State Central Hospital for the Insane.

Dr. Bahr, who was educated at the University of Berlin, has just completed a study of the German fuehrer from a psychiatric point of view.

"Hitler is a paranoiac—just as are about two per cent of the patients in state hospitals," Dr. Bahr said. "The only difference between Hitler and the unfortunates who are incarcerated in institutions is that they do not possess the ingenuity nor can they command the following of the German leader."

Dr. Bahr said that many excerpts from "Mein Kampf," reveal that Hitler's pre-psychotic personality was characterized by sensitiveness and a feeling of inferiority. In consequence, he has projected into the world of reality a suspicious, paranoid, complaining and persecutory trend which could only be satisfied with the existing idea of domination and power to satisfy his ego, according to the psychiatrist.

Has Superior Intellect

"Hitler is an individual of superior intellect like many paranoiacs and his energy is largely expended in efforts whereby his self esteem is enhanced and his striving for satisfaction is attained in his exalted egotism," Dr. Bahr continued.

His compensatory feeling of superiority has developed to meet his subconscious feelings of inferiority or low station which was manifested in his pre-psychotic personality trends. He has become abnormally so self-satisfied and so convinced of his superiority to be able to conquer Europe that any antagonism which he encounters is not considered of sufficient avail.

"I recall many years ago as a student at the University of Berlin when a prominent German psychiatrist designated Napoleon—that imperial impersonation of force and murder who covered all Europe with blood and tears—as a political paranoid whose paranoiac ambition was to conquer the world and who eventually met with failure by reason of a warped mind.

"A similar situation has arisen in Germany today and Hitlerism will terminate with such similar results."

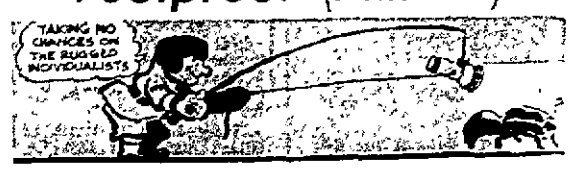
Foolproof (Almost)



By The Associated Press

GRINDSTONE, S. D.—You don't need to turn up your nose at a skunk hunter. Not if he's an expert at the sport—and there are lots of experts around here.

He has a foolproof system. Well, practically foolproof.

It involves a flashlight. Armed therewith, he awaits the skunk in an attractive henhouse these crisp winter nights. The skunk approaces. The hunter outs with his flashlight and gives the invader a blast of light square between the eyes.

Result: The skunk sits down in fright. And everyone knows a sitting skunk is a good skunk. A good skunk can be clubbed to death without damage to its valuable pelt.

That's the sort of thing that goes on out on the western South Dakota farmlands when cold weatner makes the skunks' fur a prize worth taking some risks to get.

Nobody denies that there are risks. Some skunks are individualists. They refuse to back down in the face of a blinding flashlight. They turn tail and hustle away—leaving behind a blinding, cnoking mist that balks the hardest hunters.

There are other complications. The skunks don't confine their depredations to winter. Some stalk poultry roosts early in the fall, when their pelts are worthless. The procedure then is to catch them and pen them up a until cold weather, when they m be killed with profit.

Experienced hunters w you against one popular You can't pick up a skunk tail with any assurance of welcome at home afterward fund to pay pensions in full for October, 1938.

PENSION

Bricker also declared that "the President's action lifts to absurd heights the Washington Bureaucracy in its determination to completely dominate the states. This is a clear thwarting of the will of the people expressed to their congress.

"No bureaucratic authority at Washington should have the power to punish a sovereign state or deprive the needy of pensions to satisfy a political prejudice, the people of Ohio who have paid this money in taxes have a right to and do resent this bureaucratic arrogance and threat to authority of the state."

The argument held the house in session until dusk yesterday, delaying debate on the bill appropriating $1,032,154,612 for the treasury and postoffice departments.

The deficiency bill appropriating $231,822,688 for emergency defense and neutrality expenses still was before the senate, where another victory for economy supporters also was in prospect.

The Ohio delegation of 8 Democrats and 14 Republicans was solid for overriding, with Jones and Brown, Republicans, absent, but paired to override.

The federal funds were withheld from the state and later lengthy investigations and hearings were held by the social security board which resulted in findings that there was inefficient administration of the Ohio old age assistance plan, "wholesale violation of the state civil service laws" and other defects including a "faulty accounting system."

As introduced originally by Representative Jenkins, Republican of Ohio, the vetoed measure would have ordered payment of $1,338,160 without certification by the board. It was changed to meet objections of Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator.

President Gives Reasons

Mr. Roosevelt said he was vetoing the bill to reimburse the state, which met the payments for October, 1938, out of its own funds, because he believed "an expeditious, effective and non-political administration of the provisions of the social security act is indispensable to the conduct of operations thereunder."

Approval of the legislation, the President said, would be inconsistent with this objective and establish a precedent that would "seriously endanger the success of the entire social security program."

If the bill were signed, he continued, its precedent could be extended to other forms of federal aid, such as that for highway construction, for widows and for dependent or crippled children.

"It would mean," he asserted, "that states no longer would be compelled to maintain the standards set up by the congress, but could violate these standards with impunity and still get their money."

Davey Denied Charges

Martin L. Davey, then governor of Ohio, denied charges that he had used the old age money for political purposes.

Should the bill become law, Mr. Roosevelt said, it would make it possible for a state agency to violate civil service laws, give blanket increases to some and deny aid to other needy applicants, discriminate in the handling of complaints, and maintain a faulty accounting system—all with the belief that if the social security board were to withhold federal funds because of this, the state agency could go to congress later for a special appropriation in proportion to the funds the state had put out.

The President said it was not seriously questioned that the board's action in withholding payment to Ohio was well founded. But enactment of the Jenkins bill, he contended, "would in effect render nugatory in this instance the salutary provision of the social security act which accords the federal government the sole means of assuring an effective administration and disposition of funds granted by it to the states under the social security act."

Mr. Roosevelt singled out for special criticism one provision of the bill by which the social security board would ascertain the total money distbursed by Ohio with respect to each aged needy individual who was eligible. He said it provided no practical method of determining at this late date the individual merits of each particular case.

While many individual payments undoubtedly were proper, the President said, a "very large number were undoubtedly improper or discriminatory—and a still further number of needy persons who ought to have received compensation received none at all."

O'Neal Puts Farm Bureau on Record In Favor of Hull's Trade Program

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 — Edward O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, urged continuance of the reciprocal trade program today [illegible] found that it has aided agriculture.

"Careful analysis fails to disclose any measurable injury to agriculture chargeable to trade agreements," he said in a statement prepared for the senate finance and means committee. O'Neal opposed suggested that ratification be required for trade agreements if the program is extended beyond its present expiration date in June.

"Senate ratification of trade agreements would mean a return to the vicious system of log-rolling," O'Neal said.

"painful experience with the Smoot-Hawley act demonstrated to them, once and for all, that higher tariffs were not the solution to their surplus problem.

"The farmers became convinced that every time they were lured into the tariff game they got traded out of their shirts."

The Farm Bureau Federation, he explained, is supporting the agricultural adjustment program as well as the trade agreements plan. He said that the two programs "are not contradictory but actually dovetail together in working toward the objective of bringing parity to the American farmer.

"Under the one program, farmers are keeping their production in line with existing demand, and under the other program the government is attempting to regain foreign markets so that farmers can produce more at profitable prices.

"The state department," O'Neal continued, "has wisely pursued a cautious policy in making concessions to other nations, frequently resorting to quota restrictions to protect our domestic markets against excessive supplies of imported commodities."

Concerning the state department's abandonment of negotiations for trade pacts with Argentina and Uruguay, O'Neal said:

"The willingness of our government to scrap these agreements rather than sacrifice the welfare of our farmers is greatly appreciated and is ample evidence of the good faith of both President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull."

DELAWARE CO. CASE RULING

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, Jan. 25 — The state supreme court yesterday refused to hear arguments in the suit of William McKenzie against James M. and Mary Margaret Neville to prevent the defendants from closing an alleyway near his property in Delaware. Mr. McKenzie obtained a permanent injunction restraining Mr. and Mrs. Neville from blocking off the alley at the rear of his property. The decision was appealed to the appellate court, which overruled a motion to dismiss the appeal on the grounds that $200 in cash had been filed with the court instead of an appeal bond. Mr. McKenzie asked the supreme court to rule on the question of whether cash was acceptable as an appeal bond. In dismissing the case the supreme court ruled no debatable constitutional question was involved.

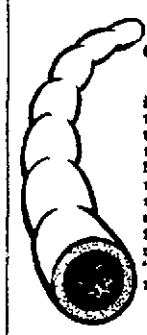
CONSTIPATION

16 Scientists Find Way To Actually Produce Nature's Own Daily, Gentle, Pleasant Bowel Action!

MILLIONS OF SUFFERERS from indigestion, sick headaches, sallow muddy skin, dull eyes, nervousness, "the blues," that "always tired" feeling resulting from Constipation should benefit by this famous formula.

HERE'S marvelous news for constipation sufferers! Results from 9 months' scientific tests in one of the world's most famous hospitals have at last proved there IS an IDEAL "daily" treatment for constipation. 16 Scientists took part in this clinic. Over 1470 experiments were made.

Tests showed many cathartics, purgatives, laxatives and harsh roughage products only "irritated" the bowel into action and resulted in bigger and more frequent doses having to be taken. After a time some products even made the condition worse.



ONE OF THE CHIEF CAUSES OF CONSTIPATION— is a "clogged" colon due to lack of moisture in the colon. Waste matter then becomes caked, dry, hard and difficult to move on. Don't fail to read how Scientific research discovered an effective way to provide more gentle complete "daily" bowel movements.

SUCCESS AT LAST!

For over 40 years millions and millions of folks have been taking a "little daily dose" of Kruschen and many wrote in letters praising it to the skies. These scientists wanted to find out WHY. So they started experimenting with the "little daily dose"—a half to one teaspoonful in a glass of water in the morning—and what an astounding discovery they made!

And just listen to this!—Kruschen now also comes in effervescent form—sparkling, "bubbling"—and makes one of the most refreshing, delightfully pleasant bubbling drinks you ever tasted!!

WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

Imagine these scientists' joy when they discovered what a difference Kruschen made! No violence. No griping or nausea. No purging. Just gentle, soft, yet most satisfactory and complete movements without the slightest irritation.

Not in one test above did the dose have to be increased.

In fact these doctors and chemists reported: "We consider this one of the most important investigations we ever made and that this small daily dose of Kruschen is a MOST SATISFACTORY aid to keep the colon sweet, clean and free from poisonous wastes—Kruschen can be taken every day for years with no necessity to increase dosage."

HOW IT WORKS

You see if waste matter in the colon isn't kept moist—it becomes hard, dry, caked and results in constipation. These scientists discovered that a little daily dose of Kruschen actually PRODUCES NATURE'S OWN GENTLE PLEASANT BOWEL ACTION by keeping this waste matter moist and soft and makes it easy to expel. How grateful these Men of Science were to be able at last to endorse an ideal, "daily" treatment for constipation which, by the way, ALSO acts as a mild antacid and kidney diuretic.

INEXPENSIVE!

The low cost of this home treatment will amaze you. A jar of Kruschen lasts weeks and costs but a trifle. Take a half to one teaspoonful in a glass of water—don't miss a morning. And, if because of constipation you're feeling depressed, dull in mind with sleepless nights, —you should soon begin to feel like a new person — Frisky as a puppy — Whole world brighter and gayer! Don't fail to get a jar TODAY. Over 245,000,000 jars of Kruschen have been sold by druggists THROUGHOUT THE WORLD. No wonder scientists wanted to find out WHY Kruschen did so much good for so many! THEY did and YOU should too, once you try it. And now that Kruschen comes in pleasant tasting "bubbling" form you, too, should get onto "the little daily dose".

GREAT NEWS!

Kruschen, made right here in U.S.A., now comes also in a most delightful tasting, "bubbling" form. Splendid for constipation as well as a mild antacid and kidney diuretic.

Sad Case of Mr. Browder

EARL BROWDER, No. 1 Communist in the United States, convicted on a charge of using a passport obtained by a false statement, could not get it through his head that he was not on trial for his political beliefs. He was in the position of a man on horseback, which is what he hopes to be someday, arrested for cruelty to animals. The charge, as he saw it, wasn't big enough to fit his political personality.

But there is not, as Mr. Browder gratefully understands, any law against being a Communist. Communists, when they misbehave, are subject to the same laws as Republicans, Democrats, Methodists, Presbyterians and everybody else. One of the laws says passports shall be obtained in a certain way, and Mr. Browder, according to the evidence, thought he was above that law. He now knows better.

The jury that found him guilty was instructed to rule only on the question of his innocence or guilt under the passport law. As far as the procedure of the court was concerned, Mr. Browder was just another fellow named Earl. He was not, contrary to his notion, entitled to any special consideration because he was Earl, general secretary of the Communist party of the United States. "They can't do this to me" was his defense—but they did.

Stolen Thunder

IF IMITATION is flattery, Ohio's Sen. Taft should be glowing all over. His budget angle was copied Tuesday by representatives of both major parties.

In Washington, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau told a congressional committee a balanced budget would have a "very healthy" effect on the country—a declaration that is 100 per cent contrary to orthodox New Deal doctrine.

In Boston, Mass., Thomas E. Dewey, a contender for the Republican presidential nomination, told an audience the budget can't be balanced while the defeatism of the New Deal continues. He repeated what Sen. Taft said in his recent tiff with President Roosevelt, that before anything can be done the government must abandon its present conviction that a balanced budget is impossible. Incidentally, Secretary Morgenthau seems to feel the same way about it. He thinks expenditures can be reduced and taxes raised to turn the trick, thus disagreeing with his chief who has said on several occasions that expenditures can't be reduced and has implied that taxes can't be raised by talking. Instead, about an expanded national income to make present taxes more productive.

It begins to look as though the budget might be the burning issue in 1940 after all. The foreign policy debate, which was supposed to preoccupy popular attention about this time, seems to be running in second place.

How Time Flies!

SHORTLY after its decision to give diplomatic recognition to Russia, the Roosevelt administration put its shoulder to Philippine independence. The act providing for independence after a 10-year transitional period as a commonwealth was signed on March 24, 1934. Thus was a Democratic platform promise redeemed without delay.

This is necessary background for President Quezon's curious speech opening the Philippine national assembly—a speech in which the strongest Filipino politician tells his countrymen they can not eat their cake and have it too. Now that independence is in sight the Filipinos aren't sure they want it.

Time has been flying since 1934. Aggression has broken loose. Japan is carving out an empire for itself, among other things. "No one can predict the future of any independent small nation," says President Quezon succinctly, echoing a similar sentiment in the occident.

The Philippines must face the facts, is the nub of his declaration. They must accept independence for what it's worth, or resign themselves to permanent retention by the United States, perhaps under an arrangement something like the existing commonwealth status. President Quezon is no doubt aware that this is a propitious moment to discuss such matters, in view of this government's tenuous relations with Japan. In the United States, it only can be mused upon how vastly different is the 1940 from the situation hoped for in 1934 when Russia was being recognized and the Philippines were being promised independence

Silver Lining Bureau

EUROPE'S war can't be all to the bad. Pollyanna's entitled to an occasional ray of hope, on dull days.

Breslau, Germany, tailors have announced that as long as war lasts only one hip pocket will be permitted in tailor-made trousers.

It's not clear how this will affect the war one way or another, but it represents progress. Men's suits have too many pockets anyway, and from what's known about the amount of cash handled by Germans these days hip pockets aren't used for anything except storage of handkerchiefs. If the war lasts long enough the Breslau tailors may do away with sleeve buttons on men's coats, but that would be drastic.

News Behind the News

Story of Secret German Plan for Attack on Belgium Believed Propagandists' Work.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Propaganda ministers in Europe have been reading their "Amazing Western Thriller" magazines again. Most lurid of their latest romancing (and this one was even retold in a world broadcast by Winston Churchill) was that the secret German plan for an attack on Belgium dropped out of the skies into Belgian hands. The great secret is supposed to have been found on a German aviator who landed disabled on Belgian soil.

Paul Mallon

No expert military knowledge would be required to suspect that the Germans are not sending their plans around on the persons of their aviators. Of course, the Germans have such a plan; even the United States has a plan of attack on Canada, but those plans are known to no more than a dozen top men in Germany or in any other country.

Direct checking by the ablest confidential sources here indicates the British may know more about the incident than the Germans. Keeping the neutrals aroused is a British, not a German purpose, and when all can be told it will develop that they are quite clever at it.

Real Source of Alarm

Graustark lived again for 48 hours in the reports that the Belgians were tipped by their royal princess, now married to the Italian crown prince. The double check here has privately convinced United States authorities that the absurdity was wholly manufactured in propaganda imaginations.

How the Belgians really became excited is a simpler but more impressive story. Their espionage, in cooperation with the French and possibly the British, ascertained that more than 50 divisions (approximately 750,000 men) had been moved up to the neutral Dutch-Belgian line.

Russian-Finnish Losses

The Russians have lost 80,000 men in the first seven weeks of the war, according to realist sources here. The Finns have put information calculating Red casualties at 150,000, but even at the correct rate the Russians have suffered greater losses than all other belligerent nations combined to date.

Finnish casualties (which have not been announced at Helsinki) run about 10,000 or one-eighth of the Russian.

Big Blow Expected

The Finns are now steeling themselves for a heavy blow. Despite exciting official reports, the conflict in Finland has been nearly as quiet during the last 10 days as on the Franco-German line. The Finns, however, have detected active preparations for what seems to be a big Red offensive against their Mannerheim defenses, and have quietly advised all friendly governments that they need whatever aid they can get quickly.

Churchill Speech

The implications which neutrals derived from Churchill's speech were either unwarranted or else Churchill was not speaking orthodox British war doctrine. Britain has no intention of getting any neutrals into the fray.

You may accept it as Downing Street gospel that the war admiralty will not do anything which would, for instance, open Belgium and Holland to German attack. As long as those two continental neighbors can be kept in a state of neutral alertness, they are buffers for the British. If they should become involved in the war, the German military machine could easily roll down the North Sea coast and establish air and submarine bases there, nearer England.

It would likewise be disastrous to the British if the Balkan front were opened to German attack. Nearest French and British troops are in Syria, while they could be thrown into a Balkan fray, the long line of supplies around to France and England, would make their position hazardous from a military standpoint.

Extension of the conflict to Sweden and Norway would likewise complicate the British front to a lesser extent. Neither England nor Germany is interested in getting the Scandinavian countries involved, but Russia might be later on after she has taken care of Finland.

Only two neutrals whose involvement would aid the British cause are Italy and the United States.

Threatened British inauguration of a mine wall eight miles wide from the Thames to Edinburgh is not fantastic. It will be done. Although it may take a long time. The war office has been preparing for it for weeks. Apparently it was one of the original war defense plans. Enough mines have been accumulated to start it at once. The idea is that it will enable coastwise shipping to move between the protected wall area and the coast, where it would be safe from German submarines.

Practically all British shipping losses in the last few weeks have been confined to this coast wise area. The claims by Churchill and Lord Halifax that the ratio of safety of convoy ships is 500 to 1, is confirmed by figures here. It is about the same ratio as in the World war.

Sees All, Knows All

That's Senate's Biffle, but He Tells Only Index Cards.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Washington chroniclers would give a mint for the compact card-index record that Leslie Biffle keeps of those dramatic little moments of senate history which never see daylight.

Few senators know that he keeps it. Only one, to our knowledge, ever saw any part of it. He was the late Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas. Biffle was one of his closest confidantes.

Leslie Biffle

Biffle is secretary to the Democratic majority in the senate. He has been secretary and assistant secretary for 15 years. You can imagine the nature of some of the things that come his way—stories of the pressure put on a wayward senator to get him to vote right; the painful, or pleasurable, little political deals that go on.

Like a senatorial Samuel Pepys, Biffle puts them all into his card index file in complete detail—for some future use he has not yet decided upon.

Keeps It To Himself

Magazines have offered him handsome sums for access to the material. Biff (he rarely hears his first name) refuses. We managed to pry out of him one example of what is contained in the diary—provided no names were used.

On a certain day the Senate took a three hour afternoon recess. It was near dinner time. Most of the senators went out to eat. One went for a drink or two and in an hour was well on edge. He bought a paper and from its columns read a story that enraged him.

"Where is the ——— who wrote that?" he stormed. Back in the cloak room he came upon Biff. "I'll get that man," he told Biff.

Later, when the Senate resumed session, the senator again came upon Biff. To Biff's amazement he exhibited two pistols, one on each hip. He was determined to violate the freedom of the press in a big way.

Biff promised to find the reporter and did. He didn't tell him all the gruesome details but emphasized what a nasty scene might break out in public. Biff is a diplomat, and the newsmen trust him, so the reporter obligingly holed up for the night. By morning all had blown over. Biff says the senator isn't in office now.

Started in 1913

Leslie Biffle is a slenderish, quietly-disposed fellow who has been working for the senate in one capacity or another ever since he left high school in 1913. He began as clerk to the late Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas. For a time he was superintendent of the folding room, where senatorial package mail is put together. From there, in 1925, he went to the senate floor as assistant secretary to what then was the Democratic minority.

Biff is painstaking and methodical about compiling his quaint record. He doesn't make a daily account. He jots down a brief note, then, at night, types a summary on a stiff card. He keeps two copies, one at the capitol and one at home—just in case.

As majority secretary he helps the majority leader round up votes on important legislation. There are many other duties as well. Of necessity, he is taken into the confidences of dozens of senators.

That is the major reason why Biff keeps his diary so secret. Once he showed a few cards to Senator Robinson. Robinson roared with glee at some of the entries.

Biff says some day—a long time from now—he may try to do something with the stuff. If he cut loose at this time the senatorial peace would be shattered for a generation.

On The Record

Portions of Dies Report Not Previously Publicized Quoted by Writer.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

I OWE the Dies committee an apology. In making it, I wish, however, to raise some further questions. In my column of Jan. 17 I asked—apropos the arrest of 17 members of the Christian Front—how it came about that the Dies committee had not discovered these gentlemen and warned the American public in its report.

Dorothy Thompson

I based my statement on the summaries of the report carried in the American press. These summaries listed the names of the organizations that had been investigated. They named the Communist party and a considerable number of its "front" organizations, as well as eleven trade unions in which Communist influence was strong.

But, on the Fascist side, the only organization named in either "The Times'" or the Herald Tribune's description of the report was the German-American Bund.

The public was therefore not informed that the Dies committee discovered that the Nazis are operating in this country with the same sort of "front" organizations that the Communists have.

Whereas, the Communist "front" organizations are mostly camouflaged under the label of leagues of friends of the "workers" or of "democracy," the Nazi fellow travelers are camouflaged under the names of "Christian" or "patriotic" or "American." Otherwise, the setup and the technique are the same.

Nazi Phase Overlooked

I do not know whether the summaries of the Dies report were put out in the form of releases, or whether they were prepared too hastily by people who had not carefully studied the report; I do not know why the public accounts of the report were so weighted against the Communists and their affiliates. But I do apologize to my readers for a careless piece of journalism.

The Christian Front was brought into the testimony by none other than Mr. Fritz Kuhn. (Page 16 of the report Union Calendar No. 5, Report No. 1476, 76th Congress, House of Representatives), and I advise my readers to send for the report and read it for themselves, in toto.

That petty racketeering mimic of bigger and better racketeers testified that the German-American Bund had "worked sympathetically with other organizations throughout the United States, and cooperates with them. Kuhn testified that some of these organizations are the Christian Front, the Christian Mobilizers, the Christian Crusaders, the Social Justice Society, the Silver Shirt Legion of America, the Knights of the White Camelia, and various Fascist, White Russian, and Ukrainian organizations."

The report further tells us (on the testimony of Mr. Kuhn) that the standard reading in the bund camps is Hitler's "Mein Kampf;" Pelley's booklets and his publication "Liberation"; the books of Julius Streicher (the perverted and sadistic drink-the-blood-of-Jews leader of the Nazis in Nuremberg, who became even too strong medicine for Hitler sometime ago), and the Rev. Father Coughlin's publication, "Social Justice."

The report further finds that in these camps "you art taught nothing concerning American institutions and ideals, are encouraged to be extremely critical of the United States and its government . . . uniforms are in every respect similar to those of the Hitler Youth movement, and the Nazi salute was the accepted gesture of greeting." (Page 17.)

Rise Reported To Have Fled

We are also informed that one bund leader on the west coast, Arnold Risse, has since fled the country; and we are given the names of people who participated in an "anti-Communist" convention in Bund headquarters in Los Angeles. The report says, "The convention was in no real sense an anti-Communist convention, but rather another of a series of attempts to unite some of the various forces of intolerance—racial hatred, Nazism and Fascism—in order to achieve greater influence in the United States."

We also learn of a "mysterious international figure who has since fled the country," namely, "Mrs. Leslie Fry, alias Paquita Louise de Shishmareff" (Page 18.) "Mrs. Fry" was leader of the "Militant Christian Patriots," and her collaborators were James True, George Deatherage, Gerald Winrod, Robert Edmondson and Fritz Kuhn.

Mr. Pelley, from whom I received a letter some time back, has gone into hiding somewhere—"either in or out of the United States," in order to escape a subpoena (Page 20)

Tribute To O. Henry

His Name Leads All the Rest This Year Among 18 Candidates for Inclusion in Hall of Fame

By DAMON RUNYON

O. HENRY has been dead 30 years (Sept. 1862. Died 1910). His name is now a candidate for nomination to the Hall of Fame, to which may be elected this year 18 American men and women whose contributions to their particular fields of endeavor are still recognized as outstanding after a lapse of at least 25 years.

Damon Runyon

We think there can be no argument about O. Henry qualifying. He was the greatest American short story writer who ever lived. Possibly he is not widely read nowadays, but neither are Sidney Lanier, Herman Melville, Joel Chandler Harris, or Louisa May Alcott, whose names automatically go on the ballot because they received 20 or more votes in the 1935 election.

Not many writers of one generation are widely read by the next generation, however great their vogue in their own day. The generation that comes after this will probably not read Margaret Mitchell, John Steinbeck, Louis Bromfield, or Ernest Hemingway, any more than the present generation reads Richard Harding Davis, Winston Churchill, Jack London, David Graham Phillips, or other best sellers of the past.

Not being read is no criterion of literary effort. W. Somerset Maugham, a great story teller himself, recently pronounced Walt Whitman the most authentic of all American writers, an opinion with which we would not presume to take issue, but which if true substantiates our argument. You would have to get out a search warrant to find any one who reads Whitman nowadays, a fact which does not decrease Whitman's literary stature in the least.

WE CONFESS with shame we never could understand much of Whitman. This probably adds to the mountain of proof already accumulated that we are a numbskull, yet every lunge we ever took at the works of the good gray poet left us bobbing. We realize that if you can interpret him he must be tremendous, but we like writers who do not require interpreters.

If we had the gall to argue with an authority like Maugham, we would probably contend O. Henry was a more authentic American—more expressive of the mind and heart than any other, not barring Mark Twain. It does not require a college education to read O. Henry or a massive intellect to understand him. Yet he was a stylist beyond compare in sheer literary art with a delicacy of touch that has never been equalled.

He wrote many stories in the lingo of his day. That is a dangerous thing for a writer to do. Sooner or later his work will be referred to by the literary critics as "dated." We do not know just what the critics mean by that term. We only know that they use it as a sneer. They use it without reference to strength of plot or the skill in handling that underlies the language. Language may record, as O. Henry always did, the speech of an era.

ON THAT basis, almost everything of any account ever written must be dated." We think any critic with the temerity to speak of O. Henry as "dated" should be required first to read "The Ethics of Pig," "The Ransom of Mack," "Hygeia at the Solito," and "A Chaparral Prince," then be taken out and given 40 lashes. If O. Henry is dated, it is curious that after 30 years his tag for New York City, Bagdad-on-the-Subway, is frequently used in the public prints and that the Cisco Kid still rides in the movies, though we regret to say not so gracefully as formerly.

O. Henry lived long enough to taste the sweets of fame and to receive some of the remuneration that goes with it, but for the purpose of posterity he would have been better off had he been born a foreigner instead of plain Bill Porter of N. Carolina. Americans dismiss too lightly their gifts from the gods in the form of literary genius. In France O. Henry would be an immortal, like the man to whose work his own was often compared, Guy deMaupassant.

THERE was no similarity save that both used the same short form. O. Henry was the greater artist in plot and in narration. If he took anything from deMaupassant it was brevity, and he improved even on that. O. Henry is said to have contended that 2,500 words should be the absolute outside limit for a short story, though perhaps a tendency to indolence had something to do with that theory. It takes most writers of today that many words just to warm up.

It is our opinion O. Henry's finest stories were located in the south or west. However, it was his tales of the big town that won him his greatest fame. For that reason, we think it would be doubly appropriate that his bust be placed among the biggies of the bygone at New York university. As a matter of fact, after contemplating some of the names suggested, we think it might be well in the interests of proportionate importance to give him two busts.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

Benjamin F. Wade, who served in nine executive congressional sessions as U. S. senator from Ohio, was holder of many unofficial records, but none delighted him more than to boast that he had read the Bible through in one winter by the light of pine-knot torches.

Ben Wade's "ivory tower," where he escaped the noise of the throng to think, was a cabin constructed of logs hewn by himself. There he read his books and chopped many a cord of wood.

Although Wade's parents were poor in finances and education, Ben was a reader of wide interests. He mastered Euclid, was well-versed in Philosophy and pursued the sciences.

After his admission to the bar he entered Ohio politics to become identified with the anti-slavery group. His service in the senate ran from 1851 through 1869.

The truck was hauling snow that had been shoveled out of gutters in the uptown business district.

Heavy Drifts Block Sandusky Bay Bridge

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY, O., Jan. 25—Officials closed the Sandusky bay bridge today as a 30-mile wind piled snow in eight-foot drifts on the state-owned span.

George Drake, Erie county highway superintendent, said the bridge would remain closed until the gale subsided.

The state highway patrolmen diverted U. S. route 2 traffic five miles west of Oak Harbor (junction of state route 19 and at Venice, two miles west of Sandusky. Cars were sent over routes 2 and 6 via Fremont.

Gerald Griswold, bridge manager, said four snow plows were attempting to open a single lane over the span for emergencies and to facilitate clearing of the road when the wind let up.

The bridge was closed shortly after midnight as snow swirling off the ice-bound bay blocked both approaches, the fine snow coated windshields and reduced visibility to virtual zero.

Griswold said the storm was the worst since Jan. 23, 1936. On that date 20 cars and several livestock trucks were marooned on the span, and cattle perished.

Meanwhile, island residents motored here over Lake Erie ice for the first time in four years. Jack Metzo of Lakeside, led four cars across the 12 miles of ice, reported from eight to 14 inches thick.

At Port Clinton, R. A. Barnhoit, supervisor of Lake Erie properties for the Ohio division of conservation, said roads had been marked on the ice for travel between that city and Put-in-Bay.

Ice Gorge Brings River Flood Threat

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Jan. 25—The crunching, grinding sound of ice piling up moved closer to Cincinnati today as a 40-mile long jam continued backing up in the Ohio river at a rate of 12 miles a day.

Joining the old floes drifting down slowly from the upper valley, new ice formed in 10-degree temperatures broke from the shores to increase the mass blocking all navigation.

The gorge which formed last week at Madison, Ind., more than 85 miles downstream, had reached a point less than 50 miles from the Cincinnati harbor. The river was rising behind it slowly, although there was no immediate flood danger.

River Rises

Attendants at [illegible] miles downstream reported the current moving heavy ice very slowly and the river four feet above normal. The gorge was expected to move back past this point some time today.

More than 125 barges, towboats and other craft were tied up in the Louisville harbor while ice choked the stream above and below the falls of the Ohio.

Far down, smaller gorges causing a sudden drop in the river below them threatened Rosiclarge and Elizabethtown, Ill., with water shortages. The suction line at the Rosiclare waterworks, which supplies both towns, was exposed, leaving a scant 24-hour supply. Officials planned to lengthen the pipe.

Above Cincinnati lighter ice came down more rapidly, following a 20-mile floe of seven-inch cakes that moved into this section early today. Two-inch ice was reported passing dam 35 at New Richmond, O., about 25 miles upstream.

Last Flood Recalled

While army engineers emphasized that there was no flood threat now, they warned that heavy rains would be disastrous.

It was only three years ago this week that a four-day rain produced the worst Ohio river flood in history without the aid of ice jams.

They said that alternate short thaws and heavy freezes also would increase the danger, while a normal thaw would permit the river to clear itself.

Serious ice gorges are such a rarity on the Ohio that they scarcely figure in traffic statistics. The last extended suspension of towboat movements was in the winter of 1917-1918.

New Cold Wave Hits Most of Nation

By The Associated Press

A new cold wave besieged the benumbed nation today and no immediate relief was in prospect.

The middlewest and Rocky mountain regions again suffered the brunt of the frigid weather but few spots on the continent escaped the Arctic chill.

Sub-zero temperatures prevailed early today in Iowa, the Dakotas, Indiana, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Minnesota, Missouri, and Illinois. The mercury sank to -28 yesterday at Napoleon, N. D.

Fresh snow swirled across some eastern states which still felt the paralyzing effect of the season's worst snowstorm yesterday.

Snow Blankets Virginia

The snowfall reached a depth of 21 inches in some sections of Virginia and 15 inches in southern West Virginia. Some schools in both states were closed. Snow and ice blanketed much of the east, south and middlewest.

Some highways in Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, Virginia and West Virginia were clogged with snow. Washington, D. C., was engaged in digging out from 8½ inches.

Freezing temperatures disrupted the water supply at Henderson, Ky., Morris, Okla., and other communities. Several factories in Henderson were closed after the water supply was cut off Tuesday. Water was being hauled from wells in other Kentucky towns.

Morris residents had to carry water from Okmulgee, Okla., seven miles distant, because a 4-inch water main froze. Part of the Guthrie, Okla., water supply was cut off also. Schools there were closed because of the cold.

Miami Shivering

A forecast of 45 degrees today sent Miami, Fla., residents scurrying in search of fuel and extra heaters. Many persons drove into the country to gather pine stumps as the firewood supply neared depletion.

Record snowfalls disrupted traffic in much of the south. Jackson, Miss., was blanketed by a 10-inch fall and the snow measured 10.3 in Atlanta. Officials estimated the damage to North Carolina highways at more than $1,500,000. Carolina roads generally were ice coated and travel was hazardous.

The cold interfered seriously with shipping. Mississippi river transportation was virtually paralyzed by slow moving ice floes from Memphis to Cairo, Ill. There were ice jams at Helena, Ark.

JAPANESE REPORTS PLOT ON U. S. ENVOY

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Jan. 25 — Lieut. Col. Jiro Saito, Japanese army spokesman, said tonight he had received information from Nanking of a Chinese plot against the life of United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson, who left Nanking this morning on the American gunboat Luzon enroute to Hankow.

Saito said he was informed the plotters planned to attack the gunboat, using either mines or artillery, "in the hope of blaming the Japanese and thus causing a crisis in Japanese-American relations simultaneously with the expiration of the Japanese-American trade treaty."

LEVIES

worth of property.

As for the use to which the levy money will be put, it is fairly certain.

The relief levy in addition to buying food and fuel for all relief clients will also be used to sponsor the WPA sewing center and household aid projects which provide clothing and service for relief clients. Only 9.3 cents of every dollar goes for administration, compared with a state limit of 12 cents.

WPA Program

Most of the WPA levy money will be used to sponsor a $136,000 sewer improvement project, according to plans now. Other WPA projects would be sponsored with some street funds and possibly the general fund.

The question is sometimes raised as to whether relief clients are receiving too much relief. Here is the city food allowance schedule, which is low in comparison with many other cities. Compare it with your own family's:

One person for two weeks, $3.08; two persons, $4.70; three persons, $5.67; four persons, $7.13; five persons, $8.10; six persons, $9.07; seven persons, $9.72, and so on up to a family of 12 which receives $14.58 for two weeks. Wherever possible someone in the family has to work out the food order.

Coal orders are a half-ton a month for single persons and a ton a month for families.

From time to time relief clients also share in surplus commodity distributions of the federal government.

Proposed Sewer Project Details

The chief WPA project planned by the city for operations this year if the WPA levy is approved next Tuesday at the polls is a $136,000 sewer improvement program.

It would be financed approximately $100,000 by WPA and $36,000 by the city. All of the city's share would not be actual cash; however, since credit is given for use of city-owned trucks and other equipment.

As tentatively set up the project is in several units, which probably would be worked one at a time. According to city officials they would be worked in the following order [illegible] completion of all units dependent on continuation of WPA and the sufficiency of local funds:

1. Clifton street sewer—This [illegible] sewer project. It would [illegible] vicinity of Woodrow avenue. Its expected effects would be relieving of unsanitary conditions in Oakland Heights; providing better storm water drainage; correction of a serious health hazard created by the present low summer flow of sewage through open ditches to the Little Scioto river. Some officials have expressed the belief it would relieve storm conditions in much of the area drained by the Columbia street ditch.

2. Nile street sewer—A sanitation project. It would relieve a health hazard now existing because of the flow of untreated sewage from the Silver street sewer to the Little Scioto. It would divert the low flow to the sewage treatment works.

3. Church street-Center street—This would be a sanitary sewer project, but is designed also to give relief to storm water conditions in the East Side.

Other sections to the program have been proposed but were not definitely listed by the mayor. Chief of these is improvement of the Ququa ditch to relief storm water conditions in the East Side and possibly along the Columbia street ditch.

The sewers are all trunk lines and as such deserve citywide support, officials contend.

The various units of the program are all parts of the original sewer plan outlined for the city, but never completed.

Officials estimate that the $36,000 of city money if spent on the sewer program would give employment to approximately 150 persons for a year or about 300 for six months.

IDAHO IN MOURNING AS BORAH RETURNS

Thousands Jam Station as Funeral Train Arrives.

By The Associated Press

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 25—William E. Borah, who went to the national capital a generation ago as United States senator from this small Pacific northwest state, returned today with a nation mourning his death.

Grief strained faces greeted the mourning-draped funeral train during two brief stops in eastern Idaho last night on its way from Washington, where the venerable statesman died last Friday after a cerebral hemorrhage.

Despite sub-freezing temperatures, thousands thronged the Boise railway station as the train reached the end of its journey this morning. The casket was taken to the state capitol rotunda.

Senator D. Worth Clark, commenting on the crowds which met the train on the trip from Washington, D. C., said:

"I don't believe there has been a greater tribute paid to any President of the United States under similar circumstances."

In the spacious rotunda of Idaho's capitol a place was made where the thousands who have come to Boise to pay their last respects might pass the unpretentious casket. Military guards were assigned.

For this unassuming man a simple rite was planned—a brief sermon, a hymn, the benediction, then the two-mile journey to quiet Morris Hill cemetery for a short grave-side service.

FINNS' SKI TROOPS HALT SOVIET DRIVE

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, Jan. 25—Hit-skip tactics of Finland's skiing sharpshooters are frustrating Soviet Russian mechanized units and are in large measure responsible for the entrapment of a big Red army force northeast of Lake Lagoda, Finnish sources reported today.

Excitement is growing in Helsinki, where Finns made it an open secret that something "big" is brewing northeast of the lake.

Behind the brief Finish communiques telling of heavy fighting for the past three days in that sector, the Finns said there was this unofficial story:

Large Russian forces early in the war pushed northwestward around Lake Lagoda in an effort to flank the Karelian isthmus defenses of the Mannerheim line. Their two columns were smashed at Loimola and Syskyjarvi, about miles inside Finland.

Another heavy drive, started in less pell-mell fashion, was stopped at Kitela, also a score of miles from the border and six or seven miles north of the lake.

Anxious to relieve the Kitela divisions before they could be cut to pieces in the manner of the 163rd and 44th divisions at Suomossalmi, the Russian command tried vainly to send troops across the frozen lake.

LEWIS

failing to solve major problems such as unemployment and increasing debt and taxation, said:

"I intended my statement to be a distinct jar to professional politicians in the Democratic party and the Republican party. I intended it to serve notice that labor was not to be taken for granted."

Speaking before the organized gas, chemical and coke workers (district 50 of the U. M. W.), Lewis explained further:

"The Democratic party had taken for granted that labor would be with them always. Any politician says he is a friend of labor when he is campaigning because it is politically expedient. In reverse token, he ceases to be a friend of labor when it becomes politically expedient."

Provides Warm Debate

The debate over autonomy provided the warmest issue in the convention so far.

The question arose in consideration of the 82-page report of the international officers. The delegates finally approved the report in full, including recommendations for larger old age pensions and increased unemployment insurance benefits.

Referring to congressional investigations of "red" activities, the convention resolutions committee said "the greatest achievement of these forces of late has been the Dies' committee which had heard a parade of witnesses including jailbirds, professional strike-breakers, and mental cases."

The resolution described as "false" the propaganda which the union contended was aimed at picturing union leaders as dictators.

Citing the Dies' committee as a part of the "forces," the resolution said that "among others they built up the fantasy that not only labor but the entire federal government has fallen into the clutches of a gang of terrorists. Shirley Temple, Gypsy Rose Lee, the late Christopher Marlowe, and even the American Indian were involved in this hideous plot."

Back Anti-Lynching

The convention also adopted resolutions indorsing proposed federal anti-lynching legislation and approving the spirit of resolutions urging a tax on machinery which displaces men in industry.

The convention received resolutions condemning use of troops against Kentucky coal miners and promises of protection offered miners who would work in West Virginia.

One, from local union 5059 at Minden, W. Va., said that Gov. Homer A. Holt "wrote a letter to about 2,500 members of our union at the McKell and other mines in southern West Virginia, who were still idle waiting to secure a contract, offering them protection if they would return to work without a contract."

Another resolution, from local 6053 at Alva, Ky., said that former Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky "after giving the miners of the state the deputy sheriff law, was a turn-coat and tried to destroy all he had done for the miner by sending the state militia to Harlan county when negotiations were about complete."

Local 5824 at Millstone, Ky., asked in a resolution that the U. M. W. treasurer contribute $50,000 to the Finnish people.

Other resolution adopted:

Dedicated two minutes of silence for 10 strikers slain in the 1937 Memorial day "little steel" massacre in Chicago, and pledged the U. M. W. to work to bring an end to conditions that resulted in the death of those seeking to improve their working conditions.

Referred to the International board for "proper action" the cases of the remaining five Scottsboro Negroes still incarcerated if they are shown to be innocent on further investigation. The resolution termed the case a "frame-up."

New Jersey C. I. O. To Follow Lewis

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 25—William J. Carney, state regional director of the C.I.O. and president of the New Jersey Industrial Unions council, said today the New Jersey C.I.O. probably would follow the national organization's lead in any stand taken on the New Deal.

The industrial council, composed of affiliates of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, indorsed President Roosevelt for a third term at its annual convention in Jersey City in November despite objections from those who said the state body should not "jump the gun on John L. Lewis."

Lewis, national head of the C.I.O., criticized the New Deal in Columbus yesterday but Carney expressed the opinion Lewis spoke then only as head of the United Mine Workers of America. Carney said he agreed with the views, but [illegible] federation of labor [illegible] national organization.

40 Autoists Get Second Notice To Appear in Court

Police today were delivering traffic court citations to 40 Marion motorists who have failed to report in court in answer to traffic tags during the last two weeks.

Police Chief Marks, who signed the citations, said they instruct the motorists to report in municipal court at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, the usual time for traffic court cases. All of the motorists previously received and ignored tags for traffic ordinance violations, principally for alley parking, overtime parking and parking on the wrong side of the street, he said.

The citations, which have not been used extensively here for several years, are a part of a program worked out recently by police and court officials to "put teeth" in an extensive traffic drive launched by police a few weeks ago.

Under this program, failure of the 40 motorists cited today to appear in court tomorrow will result in bench summons ordering police to bring them into court, officials pointed out. The purpose of the citations, police said, is simply to give motorists a "second chance" to appear voluntarily and avoid the possibility of having to pay the court costs that would result if bench summons were issued.

Court records show that while a majority of motorists have appeared in traffic court when scheduled there are some who have ignored as many as six or seven traffic tags since the police department's enforcement drive started.

Republican party and the basis for Republican hope of success in 1940."

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), a third term advocate, told reporters he thought that Lewis, "under the spell of his own eloquence, said more than he intended to say and implied more than he actually said."

Senator Norris (ind.-Neb.), a third term advocate, said he thought Lewis was "entirely wrong" in forecasting Roosevelt's defeat if renominated.

Only One in Sight

"Mr. Roosevelt at the present time is the only man in sight for the nomination," Norris said.

Wheeler himself said it would be "extremely difficult" for Roosevelt to be reelected. He reiterated his opinion that the President would not break precedent and seek another term.

But the Montanan expressed surprise at Lewis' forecast, and joined others of his party in disputing the contention the administration had not kept faith with labor.

Some politicians thought Wheeler had shown a disposition to "string along" with the C.I.O. leader in cancelling an engagement to attend a banquet last night arranged by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Green, as chairman of the division, had invited Wheeler. The senator, after accepting, said he had a prior engagement and could not attend.

FURRIER'S SLAYER HUNTED BY POLICE

Detective Inspector Joseph Sweeney said DiMarco, identified by Erdody in a hospital, admitted being in the store, but denied the shooting.

FOUR SHAKEN UP AS TRAIN STRIKES AUTO

Family Slightly Hurt at Erie Crossing Here.

Four members of a Marion family were shaken up but otherwise uninjured when the car in which they were riding was struck by an Erie freight train at a private crossing on the Erie right-of-way between State and Greenwood streets shortly before 3 p. m. yesterday, railroad officials reported.

Railroad officials said the car, driven by Mrs. Virgil Stoneburner of 670 Meadow street, was struck by a westbound train and pushed several yards down the right-of-way. Mrs. Stoneburner, her husband, a daughter Mary, and a brother-in-law, A. C. Stoneburner, were taken to a physician's office examined and released. The physician said that the four occupants of the car were "shaken up but not injured to speak of."

WILD DUCKS QUACK THANKS FOR FOOD

SANDUSKY, O., Jan. 25—Storm-bound wild ducks — caught between the unusual Arctic cold and mystifying southern snows — quacked a thankful greeting today to state-given food.

The Ohio division of conservation rushed grain to the frozen Lake Erie area where thousands—possibly 150,000 — of game birds halted a bewildering migration in search of warm weather.

Commissioner Don Waters, hearing that some of the ducks already were so weak they couldn't fly ordered game protectors to scatter grain to save the ducks from starvation.

A late winter delayed the southern flight from Canada, Waters said, and then the ducks turned back northward when they found snow in the south. He said he expected the ducks to continue their journey with a change in the weather.

Recipes Wanted for Star's Cooking School Section

THE MARION STAR'S annual cooking school which has come to be a tradition with Marion housewives, will be a highlight of early 1940. In keeping with a long established custom the sponsors are asking the women of Marion city and county and the surrounding vicinity to join them in launching the school by contributing recipes to the cooking school section.

The school this year will be held the third week in February and will be launched on Feb. 20.

Individual, club, church groups, social, fraternal and all other organizations are asked to assist in making the 1940 cooking school section a success by forwarding their favorite recipes to the Recipe Editor, in care of The Marion Star.

Send as many recipes as you like and start sending them right away. It is the invitation of the sponsors. The work of preparing the recipes for the section will start with the arrival of the very first one and it is hoped that all will be generous in their contributions to the cook book which if the sponsors hopes are realized will be a most interesting recipe exchange.

WHO SHE IS

JOSEPHINE DILLON, drama coach who 16 years ago married a stage-struck employee of the telephone company named Clark Gable and made him into an actor, hates riding on her ex-husband's coat tails.

In Hollywood where she has coached a long line of stars before and since Clark Gable she is known by her maiden name. Elsewhere she's apt to be called Mrs. Gable and that doesn't set so well.

There's nothing dramatic or romantic about Josephine Dillon's appearance, no attempt to look younger. She dresses simply, speaks in a gentle cultured voice. Modest about herself she has only kind words for her former husband. He has worked hard and deserves his success she says.

This winter Miss Dillon is taking over a new job—teaching dramatics to the girls at Christian College, Columbia, Mo. The course will not be geared towards producing professional actresses. She hopes to steer those who want careers into teaching. There is actually a dearth of college trained dramatics teachers she believes.

I'm a missionary really and at Christian College I'll get a chance to tell something to those boys and girls who are about to set out for Hollywood.

I'll tell them to stay home until they have good general educations. They should go to college if they can. But above all they have to learn how to work. They should give them selves time to grow up.

It's very bad. Thousands of youngsters of high school age are swarming into Hollywood. We have no use for them. They completely under estimate what they are facing.

My work has been in large part keeping actors and actresses up with the needs of the market. Technical things about the camera and lights change from year to year and the actors must adjust themselves.

Then there are many who come from the stage or from Europe. I revamp them for the screen. There was Nelson Eddy, for instance — my but he's a nice man—he's been in grand opera.

Sometimes they sing out of the side of their mouths — it shows up on the screen. Sometimes their breathing's old fashioned — the chest goes up and down. Some have a habit of wig wagging an eyebrow. I fix them up. The studios call me the clinic.

I love Hollywood but it is discouraging to see so many people out of work. There are some 40,000 actors there and only 400 hold any sort of long term contracts. Many can't get near the people who do. Why I've had a boy right here this morning, one of my former students. Nobody will even see him. I'm convinced he's the next Clark Gable—if he gets a chance.

ALABAMA'S QUINTUPLETS GAINING WEIGHT

For Quick Cough Relief Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used but, for real results it is still one of the most effective and dependable for coughs due to colds. Once tried you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes good, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's remarkable for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, helps clear the air passages, makes breathing easy, and gives restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound concentrated in a very pure and palatable form, well known for prompt action on throat and chest membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Blood Runs Cold

By Ann Demarest

YESTERDAY: Realizing that she is in a predicament, Christine telephones Dick Kolff, a young lawyer. He tells her to sit tight until he arrives. Meanwhile, the sergeant questions another tenant, Adrianne Wells.

CHAPTER NINE

Adrianne's Answers

AFTER I'd been in my own room only a moment I heard the Sergeant calling, so I poked my head out of the door.

"Miss Howarth, bring some water in here. The girl's fainted."

And for the second time that day I ran down the hall with a glass of water. When I went into the apartment I found the girl in a pathetic little heap on the floor with the Sergeant looming over her, trying ineffectually to loosen her frock at the throat. While I dampened her forehead he rubbed her wrists gingerly.

"Did you accuse her of the murder?" I asked.

To my intense satisfaction he looked quite uncomfortable.

"Just asked her what she was doing last night between eleven and one," he said gruffly. "She got white then, and fainted."

Then Mrs. Evans bustled into the room. "Here's some smelling salts," she said as she thrust a small bottle into my hands. "I heard the Sergeant call that someone had fainted. I might have known it would be Adrianne Wells."

How she heard the Sergeant from her attic apartment I couldn't imagine, but it was no time to argue. While the Sergeant raised the girl's head I held the bottle to her nose and Mrs. Evans looked on with what seemed to be grim satisfaction. She had changed from her hat and coat into a black alpaca suit and an old-fashioned shirtwaist with a high, tight collar. Her outfits were startling, to say the least.

In a minute or so Miss Wells raised her head, gave us a bewildered look and then lay back again.

"Are you feeling better?" I asked.

She nodded. "I'm sorry," she said in a weak voice. "It was silly of me."

Silly seemed an odd way of putting it, I thought, as Mrs. Evans and I helped her into a chair and tried to make her comfortable with pillows. Of all the inopportune times to faint she had picked the winner.

The Sergeant closed the door to the hall and stood with his back to it, a grim expression on his face.

"Perhaps you can answer a few questions now, Miss Wells," he said.

I was annoyed. It seemed to me that the law had little consideration; the girl was still as white as a sheet and very shaky. But I said nothing. The Sergeant, I was fast learning, didn't take to interference, and it was odd that the girl should faint when all he did was ask a simple question. Besides, there was something about her I didn't like now that I got a good look. She was rather pretty, at least she was very feminine. She had black curly hair and her eyes were dark, almost black, but they were set too close together, and her mouth looked sullen.

"I'm afraid I won't be able to help you," she said finally in a colorless voice. "I wasn't in between eleven and one last night."

"And where were you?"

"I had an engagement." Adrianne Wells hesitated. "I was out dancing."

"I see. What time did you come back?"

The girl stared at him, her dark eyes flashing. "Say, what is this?" she asked roughly. "And what business is it of yours what I was doing last night?"

Mary Ann

The Sergeant stepped forward from the door. "I asked what time you came in last night?"

The girl lowered her eyes. "Quite late. I don't remember exactly what time it was."

Mrs. Evans cleared her throat. "If you was to ask me, Sergeant, it means no good when people can't account for their comings and goings." Her mouth snapped shut like a trap.

Amused, I watched the Sergeant to see what he would say, but he ignored her.

"Did you know Miss Kent?" he asked the girl.

"Why, yes, I know her."

For a moment the Sergeant studied her thoughtfully, and then he said, "She was murdered last night."

"Murdered!" She stared first at the Sergeant and then at me as if she could not believe what she'd heard.

"Now perhaps you can help me," the Sergeant went on. "Do you think anyone in this house might have killed her?"

Still staring, Adrianne Wells shook her head. Her hands were white against the dark upholstery of the chair and her fingers suddenly tightened.

"Can you think of anyone else, then, who might have had reason for murdering her?"

"No, no, of course not. She was very popular."

Her voice didn't sound right to me, but I forgot it until later because the door opened and another girl came into the apartment. She stood just inside of the door, looking at us with surprise. In a bright green frock and a squirrel jacket she looked very attractive.

"Why, good morning," she said in a breathless, high-pitched voice.

"What's your name?" barked the Sergeant.

The girl looked at Adrianne Wells, then turned to him and said that she was Mary Ann Rogers.

"I thought you weren't expected in until this evening," the Sergeant said in an accusing tone.

"I worked only half a day." She looked at him questioningly. "But how did you know that?"

The Sergeant cleared his throat impressively. "I am Sergeant Long of the Homicide Squad. There's been some trouble here. Where were you last night?"

"At my aunt's on Fifty-Seventh Street."

He took the name and address of the girl's aunt, much to her amazement, then told her sketchily what had happened. She looked stunned. Joan Kent's death was a complete shock to her. I'd have bet my last cent on that.

She took off her jacket and hat, dropped them on one of the beds and sat down stiffly in a chair, her bright eyes fixed on the Sergeant. She was one of the most attractive girls I've ever seen. She wore her hair in a knot at the nape of her neck and it was the most glorious shade of reddish brown. Her eyes were the same color, and when she looked at me her smile was warm and friendly. Even the Sergeant softened when he spoke to her.

When was the last time you saw Miss Kent?"

"Last night. She hadn't been feeling well, so I stopped in her room for a moment to see how she was."

"Did she seem worried?"

Mary Ann shook her head slowly. "She had a bad cold, but if there was anything else the matter she didn't mention it."

The Sergeant smiled at her pleasantly. "I hate to go on with these questions," he said apologetically, "but you can see I must find out everything I can. What time did you come home last night,"

The girl wrinkled her brow thoughtfully. "Well, I left my aunt's about a quarter to twelve and got here about twenty minutes past. I was going to stay all night, but my aunt had unexpected guests and there wasn't room."

The Sergeant swung around so quickly to Adrianne Wells that his notebook fell off his knee. "Then you thought Miss Rogers wouldn't be here last night?"

"I didn't know anything about it," the girl said with a sharp edge to her voice.

"Miss Rogers, was she in the apartment when you got home?"

There was a long pause. "No."

"When did she come in?"

"If Mary Ann hesitated it was only for a moment, then she said slowly, "I don't know. I went right to bed and to sleep."

"Was she in when you wakened this morning?"

"Naturally."

I had to smile. The Sergeant's face was a study.

"When you came in the house did you see anyone?"

"Yes, Mr. Kimball was in the front of the shop by the window, and when I came in the door a man brushed past me."

"Someone you know?"

She hesitated again. "I'm not sure."

"Who do you think it was?"

She glanced doubtfully at Adrianne Wells. "I thought it was Mr. Kincaid."

The Sergeant nodded, apparently pleased, and said nothing for a few minutes. His eyes were fixed on Adrianne Wells, but she didn't seem to notice it, for she was lying back in the chair looking out of the window.

"Where did Mr Kincaid move to?" the Sergeant seemed to be addressing no one in particular.

"What was that?" Mrs. Evans sat up.

The Sergeant glowered at her and didn't repeat the question. The girls looked at each other, but neither answered, but Sergeant Long intercepted the glance that passed between them.

"Someone is redirecting his mail to a new address. I know who did it by the handwriting, so you'd better speak up. Quickly now, I can't take all day. It will only make trouble for you, if you don't admit it."

And Adrianne Wells, her dark eyes narrowed, only shook her head slightly.

"Come on, Miss Wells, it will go hard with you if you don't tell me. Besides, there is nothing wrong in redirecting mail."

She looked scared then. "I don't know."

"That's funny. It was your handwriting," he said.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Veritzen Informs Olina He'll Soon Be Her Father Now.

MADE my answer to Philip Veritzen's query short, swift and to the point.

"Of course you may see her, and that at once," I told him cordially. "Come with me!"

But he hesitated curiously.

"When she left her mother's apartment a few minutes ago," he said slowly, "she seemed to me to be somewhat upset nervously. Is she all right now?"

"She appears perfectly all right to me," I told him.

"Then please take me to her at once," he said. "Lillian, will you—"

But Lillian was halfway across the hall.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but I have something very important simmering over the fire, and I must stir it."

I would have given much to have followed her, but Philip Veritzen's grasp of my elbow was so insistent that I could only submit tamely to being propelled toward my door—there is no other word which fittingly describes my progress down the hall.

I knocked lightly on the door, and when I heard Olina's answering voice, calm, controlled, bidding me come in, I knew that she would keep the pledge she had made to me and to herself.

When Philip Veritzen had followed me in, he passed me and went directly up to the tall, beautifully poised figure of the princess. Then, putting out his hands, took hers in his, and bent to kiss them with the formal elaborate courtesy which he knows so well how to use.

"My dear child!" he said when he had raised his head again. "I have something very wonderful to tell you. I came straight to you because I want you to be the first to know."

I saw Olina stiffen ever so slightly, but her eyes showed warm receptive interest.

"Your mother has made me the happiest of men," Philip Veritzen said. "She has promised to marry me, very soon. I hope you approve."

He was still holding her hands. And was smiling paternally at her with the fascinating manner which is one of his greatest social—and emotional—assets. I had seen the girl stiffen ever so slightly when he first took her hands in his, but under the influence of his smile, his words and his manner, I was not surprised to see her smile warmly at him and remain passively calm when he took her in his arms.

His Happy Moment

"My dear daughter," the great theatrical magnate murmured, his head bowed over hers. When he raised it again and I saw his eyes I was astonished to see their brilliance suffused with a softness perilously close to moisture and totally foreign to anything I ever had seen in those eyes before.

"You have made me very happy," he told her, and I admired his wisdom in not pressing her for definite vocal approval of his engagement to her mother. Then he released her, lingeringly, as if she were something very precious and said softly:

"Your mother bade me ask you to come to her as soon as possible. But first, what is the favor you wished to ask of me? Please consider it already granted. I am in a mood today to give all my possessions away."

Up to Madge

"I think Mrs. Graham would better tell you," Olina said, plainly but prettily embarrassed. "I already have asked her about it, and she can explain everything much better than I can. And—I really ought to go to Maman immediately."

I guessed that remorse was impelling her to the side of her mother, whom she had tried meanly to trick, but Philip Veritzen, of course, saw only beautiful filial emotion in her eagerness, and instantly put his seal of approval upon it.

"Of course you must go to your mother at once," he said. "But come back when she releases you, and in the meantime Mrs. Graham will tell me what it is that you wish."

"Thank you," Olina said. "I will come back when Maman permits me."

His eyes followed her graceful progress along the hall, and then came back to me.

"And now, my dear," he said, "for this favor the child wants. I suppose she wants to witness a rehearsal or meet a matinee idol."

British Soldiers Get "Pre-Tested" Food for Rations

By International News Service

LONDON—Feeding the British troops both home and abroad is a big job these days, but when the British Tommy sits down to eat, either here or in France, he can be quite confident that no chances have been taken with his food.

For expert "samplers" have been at work before the food was accepted as part of his ration.

Before any contractor is able to supply foodstuffs to the British forces he must send specifications and samples. The samples are immediately sent to the war office where analysts carry out extensive tests.

The whole organization of supplies—rather like arranging a vast picnic—is the responsibility of the quartermaster-general's department. Detailed organization falls to the Royal Army service corps, headed by the director of supplies and transport at the war office.

The supplies do not mean food alone. They embrace gasoline, disinfectants and many other items. The food items alone total 250.

Here, in England, there are many depots carrying immense stocks, which are regularly dispatched overseas by the movement control staff to the base supply depots in France.

The food is sent by "pack train" to the various railheads. At present 500 tons of food are reaching the railheads daily.

At the railheads, the food is taken away by the R. A. S. C. in trucks. Then comes the job of "breaking bulk," or splitting the supplies to be handed to the various formations.

One of the basic principles of the working is that there shall always be three days' supply of food at the railheads.

ABOUT ANYTHING

In and Around Marion

Close Already

Noting the abundance of candidates for sheriff in the May primaries, one city councilman asked another recently why he too didn't join the race.

Said No. 2: "I'm only two jumps ahead of the sheriff right now."

Sonny Says Grace

In preparation for a holiday dinner with the in-laws, the young mother spent weeks teaching her four-year-old son to say grace—bound to be a big hit with grandma and grandpa. Unforeseen trouble kept the family from the dinner and they all went to a small restaurant.

Weeks of drilling sonny in his prayer were not to be passed up by the mother so when the orders were served she nodded to the child. He began his table prayer and brought over the restaurant one of those silences that suddenly descend sometimes. The mother glanced up to see two rather nondescript characters at the counter sitting with bowed heads and a rotund waiter paused in the act of serving his head bowed over the plate of food.

When sonny concluded, the restaurant came to life again.

It all happened at Galion.

Good Hunting

Harry Goodspeed of North East, Pa., a former resident of Marion, received the congratulations of his friends on his recent hunting trip. On his first deer hunting trip in northeastern Pennsylvania Mr. Goodspeed bagged a fine six-point buck weighing 188 pounds. Sharing his pleasure are his parents, G. F. "Dad" Goodspeed and Mrs. Goodspeed of 505 Holmes place. Mr. Goodspeed visited his parents here recently. He formerly was employed with The Marion Star.

Overheard

Wish we'd been in on the earlier part of the conversation at the counter in an uptown restaurant the other day, but we did hear this tag end: "So I decided with me out of town all the time I wasn't going to marry too pretty a girl."

The meeting will start with dinner at 6 o'clock. James Lytle, board member, will be chairman. Other members are Mrs. J. M. Quigley, Mrs. D. T. Mills, J. J. Divney, all of Marion, and Mrs. Vena Ruth of Green Camp township, Clyde Hinamon of Grand Prairie township and County Commissioner Leo J. Cusick of near Prospect.

Among the phases to be discussed is the aid to dependent children program, which throughout the state has been hampered by long waiting lists of mothers seeking help. Lack of funds, which are furnished cooperatively by the federal, state and county government, has been given as the reason for inability to add more mothers to the rolls. Some persons have suggested the allowances to mothers now receiving aid be reduced to permit a more widespread aid, but officials here report that state regulations insist in maintenance of relatively high standards.

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them.

The facts are simple because of all conditions effecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown . . . lack a keen appetite . . . have lost weight . . . don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price. S.S.S. Co.

DEMONSTRATION GIVEN FOR GRANGE

A demonstration of testing and planting hybrid corn, which he did as an experiment with the County Agent S. L. Anderson, was given by Paul Lawrence, lecturer, at a meeting Tuesday night of United grange. Mr. Lawrence, who was in charge of the program, opened it with the mythological stories of the grange's three graces, Ceres, Pomona and Flora. A reading on the three graces was given by Mrs. Mae Smith.

Calvin Baldinger, master, announced that starting Feb. 20, grange meetings will be held on the first and third Tuesday nights. He also announced an officers' banquet on Feb. 10 at the Forest Lawn community house in Marion.

A benefit three-act play on Feb. 6 at the school was announced by the lecturer. The play will be given by members of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church of Marion for the benefit of the grange and the church, and will be open to the public. Appointment of Emmett Trout as glee club leader for the year and of Mrs. Bertha Epley as chairman of dramatics was announced. Contests were conducted in a social hour, a men's team winning one and a team led by Clay Smith winning the other. A miscellaneous shower will be given Mr. and Mrs. Omer Klinefelter at a meeting Feb. 13.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

YOUTHFUL FARMERS HONORED AT KENTON

Sixteen Boys Guests at Dinner, Medals Presented.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Jan. 25—One hundred and fifty persons this week paid tribute to Hardin county's outstanding pork-raising youths—16 of them—who last year made the Ohio Ton-Litter club with litters of pigs that weighed at least one ton at end of 180 days from birth.

Dr. J. S. Coffey, head of the animal husbandry department of Ohio State university, outlined a four-point program for making a financial success of hog-raising, but said that "If I know how to make money raising nickel hogs, I'd stop teaching school and make myself a million dollars."

His four points embraced more efficient breeding stock; more efficient feeding with emphasis on home-grown feeds; better sanitation, and better marketing system.

Edwin Steiner, Kenton farm youth who smashed all schoolboy feeding records with a 4,340-pound litter within the 180-day period, received especial recognition as did George Pratle of Ada, 4-H club member who had produced three consecutive ton-litters from the same sow in as many years. Robert Bahr of Forest told of the feat of his ton-litter sow which, in her past 10 litters, has farrowed 152 pigs.

In addition to these the dinner and medal presentation service honored Everett Hankins of Forest; Arden Crawford of Dunkirk; Mack Elbling, Lauren Elbling, Lowell Elbling, Robert Kahler, Burnell Nelson and Clarence Hiller of Dola; and Lauren Temple, Lloyd Caldwell, Joe Clary, Bobbie Hommel and DeWayne Range of Kenton.

EVANGELIST SPEAKS ON "TEARS OF JESUS"

Ironton Pastor Preaches at Trinity Baptist Church.

Rev. J. B. Holloway of Ironton preached on "The Tears of Jesus" at the revival service last night at Trinity Baptist church. His sermon was in part as follows:

"What could convince the world of the complete humanity of Jesus more than the fact that he was 'a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief'? Tears may often be emotions, physical and mental anguish, grief or pain. The Gospels record instances where Jesus actually shed tears, while the Book of Hebrews says that 'in the days of His flesh He offered up prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears'. On several occasions He was known to sigh deeply and groan. His great pity finding expression in a sign or His indignation voicing itself through a deep groan. Jesus was a man with a very sensitive soul and gentle spirit.

"The tears of Jesus served as tangible evidence of His great love and compassion for Mary and Martha when their beloved brother died. True friendship and sympathy were revealed in those tears. But the empty wall of the paid mourners and the evidence of unbelief and the dearth of spiritual perception which greeted Him on that same occasion brought far deeper grief to Jesus than the mere sight of death."

Misses Imogene and Maryanna Russell sang a duet selection.

Rev. Holloway will preach again tonight at 7:30.

Haven for Butterflies

The Law in Pacific Grove, Calif.

By The Associated Press

PACIFIC GROVE, Calif.—This town has enacted a law with real teeth in it—just to protect butterflies. If you molest the migratory beauties here, you are liable to fine or imprisonment.

As far back as people remember, the butterflies have swarmed here by the millions every spring. Scientists who have studied the phenomenon vouch for the fact that they always arrive at 4 in the afternoon and always go to the same small grove of trees near the seaside resort of Asilomar.

The date of arrival varies. Old timers are certain that the butterflies know when they face a severe winter and come early. This year they arrived late.

"We're trying to trace their movements through reports by amateur radio operators," says David Visel of Asilomar. "It now seems pretty certain that they summer in the northwest and Canada."

Dr. John Adams Comstock, former director of the Southwest museum, identifies them as "Monarchs" and says they are the only truly migratory butterflies in North America.

They produce several generations a year, and the brood that finds its way to the traditional "butterfly trees" at Asilomar is an entirely different one from that which fluttered north the previous spring.

The commission awarded bronze medals to two young Ohio men for rescuing five boys from drowning.

Ronald E Weant, 21 filling station attendant, of Girard, saved Harold E. Mullen, 9, William C. Moore Jr., 10, and Thomas R. Moore, 12 at Leavittsburg Jan. 27, 1937

Charles C Cole, 19-year-old schoolboy of Elyria, rescued Frank Cenko and Samuel Gjurasin, both 9, at Vincent May 2, 1939

The commission report of the Weant case

"The boys broke through ice on a pond into water seven feet deep 19 feet from the bank. From the opposite bank Weant waded and then swam 20 feet, breaking the ice ahead of him, to Harold. Taking hold of Harold, Weant swam three feet farther and got hold of William. He then shoved William toward the bank, and a man in wadable water aided William. Weant then swam towing Harold six feet, and Harold was carried to the bank by another man. Weant then swam to Thomas, swam towing him eight feet to wadable water, and then carried him to the bank."

The Cole incident.

"Frank and Samuel fell into water 10 feet deep in a stone quarry the walls of which rose vertically for five to 20 feet above the surface. From a rock projection Cole dived and swam 35 feet to a point between the boys, who got hold of him around his neck and shoulders. To break the holds, Cole submerged, Samuel released his hold and Cole pushed Frank from him. The three rose separately.

"The boys again got hold of Cole, and he swam five feet to submerged rocks, on which the three then stood. Cole then swam towing Samuel 50 feet to the projection. He then swam 25 feet to Frank, who was being towed by another boy, and towed him to the projection."

Harding To Start Last Half of N.C.O. Season at Shelby Friday Night

Galion-Bucyrus, Mt. Vernon-Ashland Battles Also on Schedule.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

NORTH Central Ohio conference members embark on the second half of their 1940 league schedule tomorrow night, Marion Harding visiting Shelby, Galion invading Bucyrus and Mt. Vernon journeying to Ashland.

Pairing off in the same manner for the league openers back in December, Harding trounced Shelby, 42-22; Galion just barely edged Bucyrus, 24-22, and Mt. Vernon shellacked Ashland, 50-41.

Few minor changes have come over the scene since the clubs have moved into their stretch drives and the second meetings of the duelists may bring different results. Harding's chance of repeating over the Whippets is excellent, but other victors in initial contest may find the tables reversed.

Bucyrus Is Tough

Galion's Orangemen may find the going a bit tough in a visit to their Crawford county neighbors. Coach Alex Kish has come up with a rejuvenated Bucyrus club and since the Bucks are on their home grounds the two-point Galion advantage in the earlier contest isn't very impressive. The home court usually handicaps the visiting team from six to nine points and if it holds good in this case Bucyrus should top its guests by a narrow margin.

The Mt. Vernon-Ashland game, on deck for the latter's floor, holds the center of attention. Still riding high, wide and handsome, the Mounties will pack a perfect NCO record on their trek to the A's battleground. In their previous meeting at Mt. Vernon the Whippets were 15 points better. Coach Red Longley's crew, however, has managed to ride along smoothly in second place and should be particularly tough on their home boards.

Barr Leads League

Vince Barr, Ashland forward, last week took over the NCO league individual scoring lead by tallying 21 times. At the same time his mates, especially Center Tom Bear, limited the sharp-shooting Bob Lehman of Shelby to three points. Barr ran his conference total to 72, while Barr holds down second with 68 markers.

Dale Hudson is the only Marion Harding dribbler among the first half-dozen pointmakers. He has 57 in five league contests to rank fifth. Ahead of him are Bill Crumrine, Mt. Vernon captain, who holds down third place with 65, while lanky Jake Givens of the same team, is fourth with 61. Harold (Peachy) Lore, the third Mountie in the top bracket has a 52-point total. Captain Crumrine leads the Jackets for the season, collecting 101 points in eight.

JUNIOR HIGH RACE IN 3-WAY DEADLOCK

Edison Squad Upsets Central by 24 to 19 Score.

Battle for city junior high school honors reverted to a three-way scrap when Thomas A. Edison's quintet spilled the previously unbeaten Central quintet, 24-19, last night on the Armory court. The game marked the close of the first round of league play and left each entry with a similar record of a win and loss in two starts.

Second round play will be inaugurated next Wednesday night when Central plays host to Vernon Heights, defending titlists. Central upset Vernon, 20-18, in the loop opener, but Vernon bounced back to humble Edison, 39-23.

Edison dribblers made it a double victory last night by copping the reserve preliminary 22-10. Summaries follow:

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 — What's this about one of Dixie's top football schools waving folding money under the noses of two Missouri U. freshman stars? (Maybe the Messrs. Bob Steuben and Dan Greenwood will confirm it.)... The cops tossed Al Davis, the welterweight, into the clink last night for socking a guy named Hal Mirsky while in a playful mood...His friends say the speech Larry MacPhail will deliver at the Boston baseball writers' dinner Feb. 8 will blast Judge Landis plumb out of Florida...Mickey Walker has put the O.K. on Al Hostak.

• • •

Well, well, looks like there may be a few law suits flung around...Doc Kearns is good and sore at Jimmy Johnston and Bob Pastor for signing to fight Lee Savold here March 1 and is talking to his lawyer... The good doc is afraid the bout will smell so loud it'll kill Pastor vs. Burman in Detroit two weeks later...Talking about Savold, sports writers in the middle west are laughing themselves sick at the way the big town scribes went overboard for Savold.

• • •

The other night an irate Michigan State college basketball player attacked the score keeper... The score keeper turned out to be Don Ross, a football player and captain of the boxing team ...P. S.—One punch was enuff.

Billy Conn goes back on the air tonight and we hope he'll read his lines better than he did last week when he kept calling interviewer Stan Lomax "Sam."... Connecticut sports writers put over a real scoop when they bagged Connie Mack for their hall-of-fame banquet next Monday night...Mr. Mack rarely attends feeds except at baseball gatherings.

PITT-MICHIGAN TILT SET?

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 25—The reported booking of the University of Michigan on Pitt's football schedule this fall would make the Panthers eligible for admission to the Western Conference. Michigan would be Pitt's fifth Big Ten opponent—five games with conference members being required yearly under conferences rules. Pitt has also booked Ohio State, Purdue, Minnesota and Indiana.

EXCELLENT MEMORY

Herman Erborn and Jake Rachman, Omaha newspapermen, met on the street recently and hashed over old times on the Rock Island High school football team. They named over some of their teammates but neither could remember one of the tackles. A week later they met again and Herman said: "Jake, I know who that guy was. It was me!"

Ralph's Cagers Sink Bradley's, 34-32 To Grab Lead in Industrial League

Ralph's Snappy Service cagers today are alone at the helm of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial cage league after having edged Bradley Clothiers, 34-32, last night to keep their season's slate unmarred by defeat. It was the first loss for the Clothiers and the outcome decided current supremacy of the Y circuit.

The conquerors jumped into the lead, 10-5, in the first quarter but faced a 17-14 deficit at intermission. The eventual winners were even father back, 27-22, going into the final. They managed, however, to tie the count several times in the closing period and in the last seconds Guard George Conroy flipped in the winning basket.

In other duels last night Bibler Vaults stopped Key Town Camp, 36-31, to keep a grip on third place and Midway Restaurant spilled the Marion Business College, 46-17, to shove the winners into fourth spot. Standings and summaries follow:

Feller Aims At Winning Games in 1940 Season

By The Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25—It will be all right with Bob Feller if 1940 brings him the no-hit game he's narrowly missed three times, but the Cleveland fireballer is more interested in winning games.

"That's the easiest way to get 'em out, though, not letting 'em hit the ball," said Feller, here on vacation. "But I don't start a game with any striking record in mind. All I want is to win."

The 21-year-old star hurled two one-hit games last year, and one before that in four years of major league competition. He struck out 246 batters last summer and 240 the season before.

Feller said that the New York Yankees were the hardest club to pitch to "because they're all dangerous hitters," but declined to single out individual batters who give him the most trouble.

"They go in cycles," he asserted, "but I don't want to name any of the most troublesome batters. Some of them might make me sorry later."

Feller predicted Cleveland would be stronger this year and might finish higher than third place in the American league.

"If we don't have too many holdouts and get off to a good start, we'll have a good chance. Some of the young fellows coming up from our farms ought to help us."

REDS' PITCHING HOT

The Cincinnati Reds' pitching in 1939 accounts for much of their success. The Red hurlers held opposing clubs to 595 runs, lowest in the league.

Starts Early

Four-year-old Bobby Dawson Jr., above, of Lakewood, N. J., got a golf ball instead of a rattle three years ago and now is started on one of the youngest links careers in the game's history. His father, a pro, reports Bobby averages from 75 to 110 yards on drives, digs no divots. Recently he halved a nine-hole match with a 34-year-old opponent, and had a medal score of 71.

Luse Paces Recreation League Scoring; Honors in Elks Loop Scattered.

Bill Luse, lead-off member of the Hi-Speed Gasoline entry, set a blistering pace in Wednesday night's Recreation league matches with a trio of double-century games, 216-213-246 for a 675 total. In spite of the performance his club lost two of three to the Marion-Reserve Power Co., which piled up the heaviest team totals of 1,042 and 2,764.

Honors were scattered four ways in the Elks league, Henry's 232 and Schoenlaub's 634 topping the individual scores and an 894 round by the Exalted Rulers and 2,555 total by the Moose No. 889 taking collective laurels.

DI MAGGIO EXPECTS NO CONTRACT FUSS

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25—Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankee centerfielder, who was the major leagues most unsuccessful holdout two seasons ago, looked over his 1940 contract today and said:

"I don't anticipate any trouble at all this year." He said the figure was "not far away" from what he had expected.

In 1938 DiMaggio held out for $40,000 until the playing season was nearly a month old. Then he settled for $25,000.

PRIZE 12 YEARS LATE

Marathon Swimmer George Young of Philadelphia recently was awarded $25,000 which he won for placing first in the 36-mile Catalina Island swim back in 1926. It was held in trust for him until he was 30. He won and his wife won some $125,000 in prizes for their careers, but the $25,000 is all that's left.

Making Money

Ralph Guldahl, above, National Open champ in 1937 and 1938, believes the title should mean from $23,000 to $25,000 a year to a golfer for the succeeding five or six years. He admits he's doing all right. Last year, when he lost the title, he made more money than ever before. In the last four years he averaged about $9,000 annually in prize money and cleaned up much more on exhibitions, indorsements and salaries from equipment manufacturers. In addition he's writing a book. In 1935 he was so discouraged at his golf chances, he almost quit and took up auto selling.

BROACA HOLDS OUT

Bespectacled Hurler Becomes Tribe's First For Year.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25—Johnny Broaca, who received $2,000 each for his four victories last season, today became the Indians' first announced holdout.

The right-handed pitcher returned his 1940 contract unsigned to the Cleveland club because it called for a $2,000 slash.

"I have a lot of pitching left in me," Broaca said in Boston where he is conditioning himself. "The Cleveland club realizes that. If it didn't it wouldn't have sent me a contract calling for $6,000. If I am worth that sum to them, I am worth the $8,000 I got last season."

The bespectacled flinger, who quit the New York Yankees in the middle of the 1937 season with a $6,000 world series cut just ahead, lost two games last summer while winning the four.

GALION WARNED TO SAVE WATER

GALION, Jan. 25 — Citizens of Galion were warned Wednesday by Harry C. Dye, superintendent of public utilities here, to conserve water.

He said that unless the water consumers stop the practice of allowing the city water to run to prevent pipes from freezing, there will be a shortage of water for normal purposes.

Thoughout the city there has been a shortage of cistern water, and citizens are using hard water for laundry purposes and to fill cisterns. This extra use of water, besides the water being allowed to run to prevent freezing, has caused the situation of adequate water supply to become alarming.

Harding To Start Last Half of N.C.O. Season at Shelby Friday Night

Galion-Bucyrus, Mt. Vernon-Ashland Battles Also on Schedule.

By CHARLES HOSTETLER
Marion Star Sports Editor

NORTH Central Ohio conference members embark on the second half of their 1940 league schedule tomorrow night, Marion Harding visiting Shelby, Galion invading Bucyrus and Mt. Vernon journeying to Ashland.

Pairing off in the same manner for the league openers back in December, Harding trounced Shelby, 42-22; Galion just barely edged Bucyrus, 24-22, and Mt. Vernon shellacked Ashland, 50-41.

Few minor changes have come over the scene since the clubs have moved into their stretch drives and the second meetings of the duelists may bring different results. Harding's chance of repeating over the Whippets is excellent, but other victors in initial contest may find the tables reversed.

Bucyrus Is Tough

Galion's Orangemen may find the going a bit tough in a visit to their Crawford county neighbors. Coach Alex Kish has come up with a rejuvenated Bucyrus club and since the Bucks are on their home grounds the two-point Galion advantage in the earlier contest isn't very impressive. The home court usually handicaps the visiting team from six to nine points and if it holds good in this case Bucyrus should top its guests by a narrow margin.

The Mt. Vernon-Ashland game, on deck for the latter's floor, holds the center of attention. Still riding high, wide and handsome, the Mounties will pack a perfect NCO record on their trek to the A's battleground. In their previous meeting at Mt. Vernon the Whippets were 15 points better. Coach Red Longley's crew, however, has managed to ride along smoothly in second place and should be particularly tough on their home boards.

Barr Leads League

Vince Barr, Ashland forward, last week took over the NCO league individual scoring lead by tallying 21 times. At the same time his mates, especially Center Tom Bear, limited the sharp-shooting Bob Lehman of Shelby to three points. Barr ran his conference total to 72, while Barr holds down second with 68 markers.

Dale Hudson is the only Marion Harding dribbler among the first half-dozen pointmakers. He has 57 in five league contests to rank fifth. Ahead of him are Bill Crumrine, Mt. Vernon captain, who holds down third place with 65, while lanky Jake Givens of the same team, is fourth with 61. Harold (Peachy) Lore, the third Mountie in the top bracket has a 52-point total. Captain Crumrine leads the Jackets for the season, collecting 101 points in eight.

JUNIOR HIGH RACE IN 3-WAY DEADLOCK

Edison Squad Upsets Central by 24 to 19 Score.

Battle for city junior high school honors reverted to a three-way scrap when Thomas A. Edison's quintet spilled the previously unbeaten Central quintet, 24-19, last night on the Armory court. The game marked the close of the first round of league play and left each entry with a similar record of a win and loss in two starts.

Second round play will be inaugurated next Wednesday night when Central plays host to Vernon Heights, defending titlists. Central upset Vernon, 20-18, in the loop opener, but Vernon bounced back to humble Edison, 39-23.

Edison dribblers made it a double victory last night by copping the reserve preliminary 22-10. Summaries follow:

Ralph's Cagers Sink Bradley's, 34-32, To Grab Lead in Industrial League

Ralph's Snappy Service cagers today are alone at the helm of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial cage league after having edged Bradley Clothiers, 34-32, last night to keep their season's slate unmarred by defeat. It was the first loss for the Clothiers and the outcome decided current supremacy of the Y circuit.

The conquerors jumped into the lead, 10-5, in the first quarter but faced a 17-14 deficit at intermission. The eventual winners were even farther back, 27-22, going into the final. They managed, however, to tie the count several times in the closing period and in the last seconds Guard George Conroy flipped in the winning basket.

In other duels last night Bibler Vaults stopped Key Town Camp, 36-31, to keep a grip on third place and Midway Restaurant spilled the Marion Business College, 46-17, to shove the winners into fourth spot. Standings and summaries follow:

Feller Aims At Winning Games in 1940 Season

By The Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25—It will be all right with Bob Feller if 1940 brings him the no-hit game he's narrowly missed three times, but the Cleveland fireballer is more interested in winning games.

"That's the easiest way to get 'em out, though, not letting 'em hit the ball," said Feller, here on vacation. "But I don't start a game with any striking record in mind. All I want is to win."

The 21-year-old star hurled two one-hit games last year, and one before that in four years of major league competition. He struck out 245 batters last summer and 240 the season before.

Feller said that the New York Yankees were the hardest club to pitch to "because they're all dangerous hitters," but declined to single out individual batters who give him the most trouble.

"They go in cycles," he asserted, "but I don't want to name any of the most troublesome batters. Some of them might make me sorry later."

Feller predicted Cleveland would be stronger this year and might finish higher than third place in the American league.

"If we don't have too many holdouts and get off to a good start, we'll have a good chance. Some of the young fellows coming up from our farms ought to help us."

REDS' PITCHING HOT

The Cincinnati Reds' pitching in 1939 accounts for much of their success. The Red hurlers held opposing clubs to 595 runs, lowest in the league.

Luse Paces Recreation League Scoring; Honors in Elks Loop Scattered.

Bill Luse, lead-off member of the Hi-Speed Gasoline entry, set a blistering pace in Wednesday night's Recreation league matches with a trio of double-century games, 216-213-246 for a 675 total. In spite of the performance his club lost two of three to the Marion-Reserve Power Co., which piled up the heaviest team totals of 1,042 and 2,764.

Honors were scattered four ways in the Elks league, Henry's 232 and Schoenlaub's 634 topping the individual scores and an 894 round by the Exalted Rulers and 2,555 total by the Moose No. 889 taking collective laurels.

DI MAGGIO EXPECTS NO CONTRACT FUSS

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25—Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankee centerfielder who was the major leagues most unsuccessful holdout two seasons ago, looked over his 1940 contract today and said:

"I don't anticipate any trouble at all this year." He said the figure was "not far away" from what he had expected.

In 1938 DiMaggio held out for $40,000 until the playing season was nearly a month old. Then he settled for $25,000.

PRIZE 12 YEARS LATE

Marathon Swimmer George Young of Philadelphia recently was awarded $25,000 which he won for placing first in the 30-mile Catalina Island swim back in 1926. It was held in trust for him until he was 30. He won and his wife won some $125,000 in prizes for their careers, but the $25,000 is all that's left.

Making Money

Ralph Guldahl, above, National Open champ in 1937 and 1938, believes the title should mean from $23,000 to $25,000 a year to a golfer for the succeeding five or six years. He admits he's doing all right. Last year, when he lost the title, he made more money than ever before. In the last four years he averaged about $9,000 annually in prize money and cleaned up much more on exhibitions, indorsements and salaries from equipment manufacturers. In addition he's writing a book. In 1935 he was so discouraged at his golf chances, he almost quit and took up auto selling.

BROACA HOLDS OUT

Bespectacled Hurler Becomes Tribe's First For Year.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25—Johnny Broaca, who received $2,000 each for his four victories last season, today became the Indians' first announced holdout.

The right-handed pitcher returned his 1940 contract unsigned to the Cleveland club because it called for a $2,000 slash.

"I have a lot of pitching left in me," Broaca said in Boston where he is conditioning himself. "The Cleveland club realizes that. If it didn't it wouldn't have sent me a contract calling for $6,000. If I am worth that sum to them, I am worth the $8,000 I got last season."

The bespectacled flinger, who quit the New York Yankees in the middle of the 1937 season with a $6,000 world series cut just ahead, lost two games last summer while winning the four.

GALION WARNED TO SAVE WATER

GALION, Jan. 25 — Citizens of Galion were warned Wednesday by Harry C. Dye, superintendent of public utilities here, to conserve water.

He said that unless the water consumers stop the practice of allowing the city water to run to prevent pipes from freezing, there will be a shortage of water for normal purposes.

Throughout the city there has been a shortage of cistern water, and citizens are using hard water for laundry purposes and to fill cisterns. This extra use of water, besides the water being allowed to run to prevent freezing, has caused the situation of adequate water supply to become alarming.

EITHER WAY, YOU WIN!
There's a new and better gasoline in both these pumps!

NEW SUPER-SHELL

NEW SUPER-SHELL is truthfully a startling development in motor fuels.

You can feel the difference the instant you step on your starter. NEW SUPER-SHELL "gets going" pronto —in coldest weather . . . whisks you through traffic...lets your motor take highest hills in stride! Economy? NEW SUPER-SHELL has been specially engineered to increase your savings on Stop-and-Go, the costliest kind of driving there is.

Of course NEW SUPER-SHELL costs more to make. But it costs you no more to buy!

TWO NEW TRIUMPHS FOR SHELL'S SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

NEW SUPER-SHELL and NEW SHELL PREMIUM are the latest achievements of the Company . . .

FIRST TO SPONSOR ANTI-KNOCK RESEARCH

Under the sponsorship of Shell, Harry Ricardo discovered principles that made high compression engines possible. His experiments in flame propagation and action of aromatic hydro-carbons led to the development of Shell's "BALANCING PROCESS" in refining.

FIRST TO PRODUCE 100 OCTANE GASOLINE

Shell first produced 100 octane gasoline commercially... Instrumental in bringing aviation to its present high development. Shell produced approximately 30% of all aircraft fuel used in the U. S. in 1939.

FIRST TO RE-FORM GASOLINE — and now Shell's "BALANCING PROCESS" saves you more money on Stop-and-Go

The refining secret that makes NEW SUPER-SHELL and NEW SHELL PREMIUM possible is Shell's "BALANCING PROCESS." There are many different tests by which the performance of a gasoline can be measured. "Balancing" means that no one performance characteristic is stressed at the expense of another—we don't rob Peter to pay Paul. As a result every drop of both these fuels is usable in your motor. Waste is reduced. Economy increased. Stop-and-Go costs you less.

NEW SHELL PREMIUM

The finest gasoline ever to bear the Shell name.

The same Shell scientific research, the same refining talent that first produced 100 octane fuel for racing planes, brings another great advance!

If your motor calls for anti-knock far above the average, SHELL PREMIUM is "made to order" for you. Under all driving conditions—starting, shifting, accelerating, steady running —it delivers an even wider EXTRA MARGIN OF PERFORMANCE. Costs plenty more to make but it costs you no more than the usual extra price.

Test a tankful— YOU be the judge!

To get full advantage of these new "Balanced" motor fuels, do not dilute them with ordinary gasolines.

Erie Paces Ohio Railroads in Trend Toward Diesel-Powered Locomotives

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25 — Ohio railroads are turning to latest types of equipment to streamline their costs.

Erie recently placed in operation seven diesel-powered switching locomotives, expected to pay for themselves in eight or nine years.

Wheeling & Lake Erie, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette—other big lines tapping the busy Ohio territory—receive delivery soon on 500 box cars which are money-savers because each is 4½ tons lighter than old-style cars.

Erie, which purchased its first diesel in 1926 for use at Akron, now has eleven. The new group, in use at the Jersey City terminal, comprises three 1,000-horsepower engines at $84,000 each, and four 660-horsepower switchers at $62,000 each.

"The maintenance cost is much less, compared with steam engines bought as late as 1930, and fuel costs are considerably less, too," said H. D. Barber, Erie's operating vice president.

Pay for Themselves

Barber said the seven not only should pay for themselves in eight or nine years of 24-hour operation, but replace 11 steam engines.

"Diesels also are more advantageous," he continued. "You can turn them off and on anytime, and save fuel. With a coal-burner, it costs more to let the fire go out than it does to add a ton of coal every eight hours to keep it warm."

Oil-burning diesels have not succeeded in seriously threatening steam locomotives for the heavier passenger and freight hauls.

"They cost less in the switching-size engines, but the costs go up greatly for the heavier engines. It costs between $110,000 and $120,000 for the biggest steam locomotive in passenger service, and it is estimated a diesel of the same power would run about $400,000.

"You must save a considerable amount in operating costs in order to justify buying a big diesel," Barber said.

One potential disadvantage of the diesel, operating men say, is that it may not last as long as a steam locomotive. Even so, Erie and some other roads calculate they save money because the oil-burners pay for themselves in a comparatively short time.

Cars Made of Alloy

The cars ordered by Wheeling & Lake Erie, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette are constructed with the same high-tensile, low-alloy steel used in sleek streamlined trains. Officials say the 4½ tons saved on each car can be converted into pay load without increasing the cost.

Not all operating men agree on merits of lighter freight cars. Some suggest that, operated many years, maintenance costs may be higher than with conventional equipment because they may not prove as strong. Others declare they are as durable as present freight cars. Some roads are leasing the lighter cars, instead of buying.
